CAN INSURANCE COMPANIES FIND MISSING MAN?

Strange Case of Dr. Lightle, Charged With Attempted Fraud, Still Unsolved in Public Mind Though Supposed Widow Has Restored Money.

OFFICERS START ON HUNT ARMED WITH REQUISITIONS

Physician's Attorney, While Declaring He Believes He's Alive, Asserts That He Didn't Contemplate Fraud in Disappearance—Mrs. Lightle Fully Exonerated.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 19.—The strange case of Dr. R. G. Lightle of Searcy, accused of conspiracy to defraud insurance companies out of $21,000 by his disappearance May 22 last under such circumstances as to indicate his death, is not yet solved.

The insurance companies, though professing to know where he is, have not taken the public into their confidence. They have, however, caused an officer to be sent to Georgia, presumably to arrest him. The officer took a warrant and extradition papers. It is said officers have also gone to another state for the same purpose.

Mrs. Lightle, the supposed widow, is evidently convinced her husband is alive, for she has returned to the companies the $19,000 she collected. One policy for $2000 was never cashed, it being asserted that the widow had received a letter indicating her husband was alive. The writer of this letter, it is said, she believed to be the missing man himself, both from his handwriting and the contents, and this influenced her to delay the collection on the one policy.

The insurance companies exonerate Mrs. Lightle from any intentional wrong, but they refuse to state whether there will be any prosecution of Lightle. It is intimated in some quarters that he will not be prosecuted, since there has been a restitution of the funds. It is stated, however, that Mrs. Ed Pitts, whose husband's body is alleged to have been substituted for that of Dr. Lightle, is determined to prosecute him on the charge of grave robbery should he be apprehended. The extreme penalty for this offense is six months' imprisonment.

Just what course the legal proceedings will take is at present a matter wholly of conjecture.

Wild rumors are flying fast at Searcy. Some who profess to know assert that there will be still further startling developments and that one or more prominent people of Searcy will be implicated, while others state that Dr. Lightle is dead beyond all question of doubt; that a deeper motive than has yet come to light is behind the act of the insurance companies in attaching the money.

Dr. Lightle has many stanch friends here who believe him incapable of such a serious crime. They point out many weak points in the charges made by the insurance companies that Ed Pitts' body was substituted and palmed of fas his own. They aver Pitts' body was in such a condition that it could not have been removed and placed in the barn back of Dr. Lightle's residence without the odor from the body being detected by the neighbors.

Dr. J. T. Stilwell, the dentist, refutes the statement that he positively identified the body of Lightle. He states that he only gave the body a hurried examination. He believed at the time it was the body of Lightle. He states that if the burned body was exhumed he could make a positive identification, as he is familiar with the teeth of both Pitts and Lightle.

John V. Roberts of Searcy, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the case as Lightle's attorney, is in Little Rock. He says:

"I am inclined to think that Dr. Lightle had secured a body from some source for the purpose of dissection, and that he suddenly made up his mind to leave home and thought that it would be a good idea to set fire to his barn and burn up the body to give the impression that he had been burned in the fire. As to whose body it was, I am, of course, ignorant. He might have, as is frequently the case, paid a negro a couple of dollars to secure him a body for dissection and then when he made up his mind to disappear the rest of the arrangements could have been carried out by himself, without assistance.

"I am confident that Mrs. Lightle had no knowledge of the fact that her husband was alive until the receipt of the letter purporting to have been written by him, a month ago. Previous to that time all of the insurance upon Dr. Lightle's life had been paid, with the exception of the $2000 in the A. O. U. W. She then made up her mind not to collect the remaining insurance, pending further developments.

Mr. Roberts said that he was not at Searcy at the time of the burning of Dr. Lightle's barn and the cremation of the body supposed to be that of Dr. Lightle.

"I left home on Saturday," said Mr. Roberts, "to go to Paragould, expecting to return to Searcy with my mother Monday. Saturday my little sister became ill and there were indications of scarlet fever. Before leaving for Paragould I called Dr. Lightle and he promised to stay at the house with my sister until I returned from Paragould. Sunday I talked with him over the telephone. Monday morning we started to return to Searcy and at Higginson I heard the report that Dr. Lightle had been burned to death in his barn. I thought that it was strange, as he had promised to stay at my house with my little sister. When we reached Searcy the coroner's inquest had been held and the remains were in the casket. Therefore, I did not see the body. The funeral was held with Masonic rites, in which I took part as worshipful master of the lodge.

MISS PAPIN HAS CHANCE TO RECOVER

Family Extremely Solicitous for Society Woman Who Fell, Cutting Her Neck.

The condition of Miss Julia Papin, daughter of Theophile Papin, of 3765 Lindell boulevard, who has been suffering from a severe accident, was improved Friday, and it is now thought that her recovery will be uninterrupted.

In stepping from her bath Wednesday afternoon Miss Papin slipped and fell against a hook, which supported a sponge basket. The hook lacerated blood vessels in the side of her neck and a severe hemorrhage resulted.

That her condition is not more serious is due to the fact that with rare presence of mind, before succumbing to the pain of her injury, Miss Papin unlocked the bathroom door and called for assistance.

Doctors, arriving promptly, checked the hemorrhage, and, while her condition has been very serious, there are strong hopes now for her ultimate recovery.

FAIR CROWD NOT AFRAID OF RAIN

Unusually Large Attendance Today Had Beauties of Exhibits Forced Upon Them.

ALL WERE PREPARED FOR IT

Although Another Twenty-four Hours of It Is Predicted Visitors Care Not.

Cloud-covered skies and showers, which at times developed into downpours, had apparently no effect on Friday's World's Fair crowds who began filling Exposition-bound street cars to the limit early in the day.

The rainy weather came, as predicted, Thursday, and although sunshine relieved the humidity Friday morning, 24 hours more of rain is promised by the weather bureau.

The forecast: "Showers tonight and probably Saturday. No decided change in temperature."

Friday's showers, like those of Thursday, came as a result of general rainy conditions prevailing throughout the greater part of the country.

The crowds of World's Fair visitors were prepared for them, and the prevailing style of costume for both sexes, included umbrellas, raincoats and rubbers.

Beside the big exhibit buildings, the lines of sightseers, hurrying from one sheltering roof to another, resembled processions of black mushrooms the effect being all the more pronounced because the crowd apparently wanted to keep in lines instead of groups.

Trouble was experienced by early visitors at the Lindell and Pike entrances because of the rain which flooded the subways under the Wabash tracks.

The Pike entrance was so badly flooded during the morning that it could not be used, and visitors getting off there from the Page and Easton avenue cars were compelled to wade in water to their shoetops.

At the Lindell entrance only three passageways under the viaduct could be used. One of these was partly under water, but the other two were dry.

The crowds of people kept waiting in the rain, for their turns to pass in. Similar delay was experienced at the pass gates, the trouble there being the examination of the numbers on passes, in accordance with recent orders issued by the admissions department.

When once inside, the crowd hurried to the main exhibit buildings. Most of the state and foreign buildings were closed because of the rain, those in charge not wishing to risk the damage which muddy shoes and dripping umbrellas can inflict.

Because of this and the intermittent showers which kept the crowd indoors most of the day, the exhibit buildings were more completely filled with people than any time since the opening day. In some sections of the buildings the crowd amounted to almost a crush.

Exposition officials expressed much gratification at the size of the crowd. They believe that it is the result of a large influx of visitors who are determined to see the Exposition in spite of the weather.

From now on, they argue, there will be so many visitors who will want to see the World's Fair while they are here that bad weather will not seriously affect the attendance.

JAPANESE SEIZE ANOTHER SHIP IN CHINESE HARBOR

Seven Destroyers Enter Chefoo Port and Take Possession of Unidentified Vessel Supposed to Be Russian and Tow Her Out.

PORT ARTHUR BESIEGERS BEGIN STORM OPERATIONS

All the Temporary Forts Now in Their Custody and Loss of Life in Taking Them Is Believed to Have Been Comparatively Small.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The state department has received a cablegram from Chefoo, dated today, the substance of which is as follows:

"This morning seven Japanese destroyers entered the harbor and met a steamer, probably Russian, which they captured. Two Japanese cruisers are outside the harbor."

TOKIO, Aug. 19.—Japanese gunboat of the Otvaja type struck a rock and sank off Laoti promontory, the extreme southern point of the Kwang Tung peninsula on which Port Arthur is situated, at 8 o'clock on Thursday night.

CHEEFOO, Aug. 19.—Refugees from Port Arthur bring reports of terrific fighting there.

The storming operations have begun and the Japanese have carried all the temporary works that protect the permanent last line of forts.

At close range the Japanese cannon are plunging shells at the Russian batteries which are being rapidly silenced by the extraordinary gunnery of the besiegers.

The reports of heavy loss of life in the artillery ranks are based on mere guesswork. They come from refugees from the city itself, and are based on Russian figures. The Russians, of course, know nothing about what has happened in the Japanese ranks.

The rumor that 20,000 Japanese have perished is undoubtedly grossly exaggerated. Under the Japanese plan of reducing the city, it is doubtful if their loss during the entire siege will exceed this figure.

This process is to practically decimate every fort with cannon before taking it.

This will be followed till the last stand, at which the Japanese will, of course, suffer heavily. This stage, however, has not been reached.

The Emperor of Germany has cabled a request that the Russians direct Commander Hopman and Lieut. Gilgenheim, the German attaches at Port Arthur, to withdraw in accordance with the Japanese offer.

"AS LONG AS THERE IS A MAN IN THE LAST FORT PORT ARTHUR WILL FIGHT."

Special Cable to the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1904, by the Press Publishing Co.)

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Chefoo correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, wiring Thursday night, reports:

"A refugee who quitted Port Arthur last (Wednesday) night says that the major of the Japanese staff who went under a flag of truce was blindfolded and conducted to a war council at Port Arthur where he asked for the surrender of the fortress on the following gounds:

"1. The Russian troops to be allowed to go under arms past the Kinchow positions in order to unite with Gen. Kuropatkin's army.

"2. All citizens who should desire it to be protected by the Japanese government and sent at its expense to any place in exchange.

"3. The Russians must leave Port Arthur intact and deliver up all the ships in the harbor.

"Gen. Stoessel replied:

"'As long as there is a man in the last fort Port Arthur will fight.'

"Later, refugees report that the Japanese made a great attack on Monday, and charged over huge mine fields, when there was a terrible explosion and men were blown to atoms. It is estimated that the Japanese had 10,000 casualties.

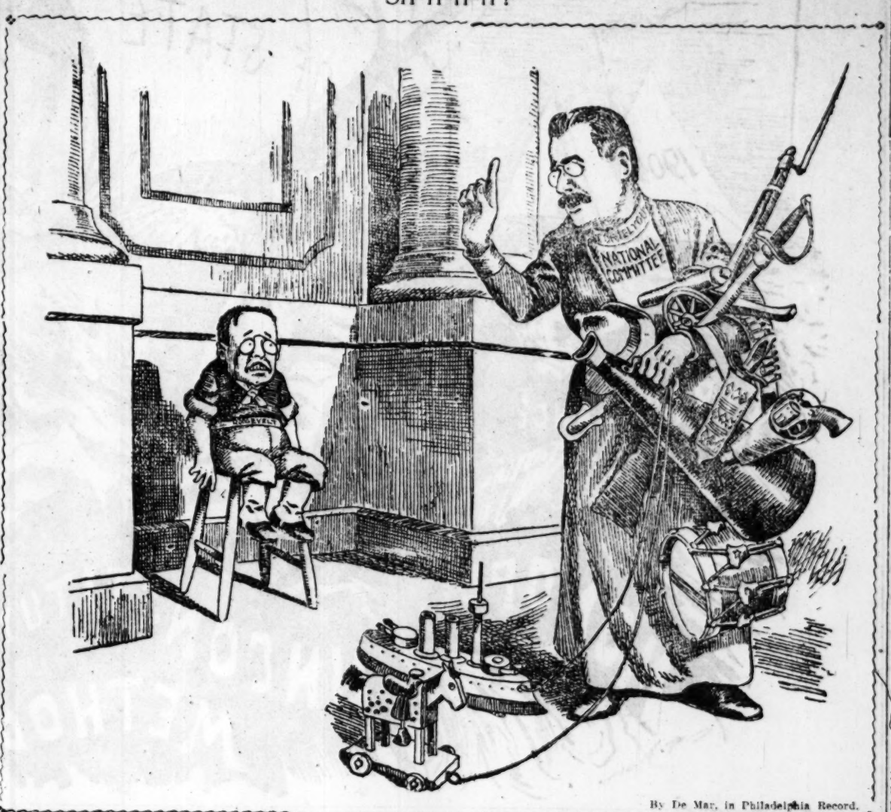

"The Japanese are said to be driving large herds of cattle over the Russian mines, trying to explode them. The Russians capture the cattle and this assists their food supplies.

"During the last three days, 200 shells fell in the town. The main line forts are still intact, and the garrison is cheerful and confident."

The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Express wires:

"The number of civilians yet remaining in Port Arthur is unknown, but it is said to include the wives of the naval and military officers, who, for patriotic reasons, have steadily refused to leave the besieged town. It is said that the remaining non-combatants petitioned Gen. Stoessel on Wednesday to be allowed to remain in the town rather than be under obligations to the enemy."

HUNGRY BABY STIRS UP STATE TERRACE

Little Guest of Arkansas Building Provided With Food After an Exciting Hunt.

COMR. BETTS TO THE RESCUE

When Nursing Bottle Could Be Found Nowhere Else Connecticut Building Produced One.

An Arkansas baby, 6 months old, and a faithful old negro mammy were guests of the Arkansas building at the World's Fair for eight hours, while the hostess and members of the commission had the most stirring time of their lives trying to provide for the infant.

The father and mother of the infant left it at the Arkansas building at 2 o'clock, in charge of the negro mammy, with instructions to the woman to tarry there until they returned.

The nurse said "Yes'm," and made herself at home.

By and by baby became hungry and was not disposed to brook delay.

The nurse set about to meet the need. She looked around some for the Arkansas building nursing bottle, but did not find it.

"Wha do yo' all keep yo' nu'sin' bottle?" she asked of one of the women connected with the building.

The woman said they didn't keep one at the Arkansas building.

The negro woman manifested polite surprise.

"Don' keep no nu'sin' bottle?" she said. "How d' yo' 'spec folks is gwine tu feed they babies when they come to visit at yo' house?"

It had to be confessed that no provision had been made for such a contingency.

The baby was getting hungrier every minute and something had to be done. Miss Lizzie Cage, the hostess, had doubts whether there was a nursing bottle in the Terrace of States. She sent attaches in every direction, and after an anxious wait one of the emissaries came running back triumphantly holding a nursing bottle aloft. It had been found at the Connecticut building, where National Commissioner Frederick B. Betts makes his headquarters.

Something to put into the bottle was the next need. There was a hurried hunt, and at one of the other state buildings milk was found. It was quickly transferred to the nursing bottle, and the baby almost as quickly transferred it to its clamorous little stomach.

It was 10 o'clock when the parents of the baby returned from their sightseeing. They found the baby sleeping sweetly, and the faithful mammy at her post. An attache of the building, who had been detailed to keep the building open until the parents called for the baby, was also there. He had been there four hours after closing time keeping vigil, along with the nurse and the baby.

As they trudged away toward the entrance the negro woman was heard volubly relating the trouble there had been to find a bottle.

Cummins Case Continued.

Fred G. Cummins, manager of Cummins' Wild West show on the Pike at the World's Fair, secured a continuance of the case against him on a charge of cruelty to animals until Aug. 26, when the case was called in City Hall police court Friday. The case is the outcome of Cummins' arrest at the instance of St. Louis Humane Society officers, who charge cruelty.

CANDIDATES TALK ABOUT "FRICTION"

Mr. Folk Appears at State Headquarters During Conference, But Takes Little Part.

A conference of Democratic state leaders was held in the private office of Chairman W. N. Evans of the state committee in the Equitable building Friday morning.

Judge Evans called the conference, he says, "to see if there is any friction between the candidates."

It began about 10:30 and continued until noon.

Those who attended the conference were Chairman Vandiver of the executive committee, Secretary of State Cook, Auditor Allen, United States Senator Cockrell and Robert H. Kern.

While the conference was in progress Joseph W. Folk and Nelson W. McLeod both appeared at the headquarters, but did not enter the conference.

Mr. Folk said he had not been invited to the conference, and that he was not advised of any especial significance attaching to it. He stated that he had nothing further to say in regard to Senator Stone.

Mr. McLeod made the same statement. Friends of Mr. McLeod declare, however, that he has not quit fighting Stone, and that he will be heard from within a few days.

After Senator Cockrell, Auditor Allen and Mr. Kern departed about noon, Secretary of State Cook remained in conference with Messrs. Evans and Vandiver.

Allen declared the meeting was held just to "talk things over."

Judge Evans said he would probably make a more extended statement later.

It is understood that the attitude of Senator Stone towards the head of the ticket was discussed at length in the conference.

Senator Cockrell declined to discuss for publication the statement made by Nelson W. McLeod and denied by Senator Stone that Senator Cockrell at a conference at the Southern Hotel several days ago told Stone he was making an ass of himself.

CAN'T GET INTO THE ASYLUM.

Institution Too Crowded and Applications Are Rejected.

The Board of Health is endeavoring to solve the question of what shall be done regarding the badly crowded condition of the Insane Asylum, but so far no solution has been reached. In the meantime, 199 of the inmates are compelled to sleep on the floors in the hallways and general assembly rooms, and white people and negroes are occupying the same rooms. There are 720 inmates in the institution, which is crowded at 500.

At Thursday's meeting the board received a number of applications for admission to the asylum, but it was necessary to hold all over until some means for accommodating the patients could be arranged. A plan to rent several houses in the vicinity of the asylum was proposed. First, however, an effort will be made to send some of the patients to the state asylum.

AUTO RACES POSTPONED.

MAN ACCUSED OF EXTENSIVE SWINDLE

Dozen St. Louis Firms Charge B. F. McKinney of Irondale With False Representation.

HOW HE GOT MERCHANDISE

Warrant Alleges He Falsified Statement of Assets in Purchasing on Credit.

A deputy sheriff went to Irondale, Washington County, Friday, for the purpose of arresting B. F. McKinney, a merchant at that place, against whom a warrant charging obtaining goods from St. Louis wholesale merchants under false pretenses as to his liabilities and assets was issued several days ago. McKinney is charged with buying goods on credit from St. Louis and other firms after submitting to them what purported to be a correct statement of his debts and resources. The warrant against him was issued at the instance of the Goddard Grocer Co. at 413-415 South Seventh street, and the St. Louis Credit Men's Association.

McKinney is said to owe $3000 and to have assets not exceeding $350.

It is alleged that in April of this year he sent an order for a bill of goods amounting to less than $100 to the Goddard Grocer Co., but because he had not credit rating with any commercial agency, the order was refused. Then, it is alleged, McKinney sent a signed statement representing his liabilities as $250 and his assets as $24.25.

The goods were sent to him, according to the Goddard company, but they failed to receive payment. A collection agency in whose hands the matter was placed reported that McKinney's assets were $300 and his liabilities $3000.

The following St. Louis firms are said to have lost sums reaching a total of $1500 as a result of similar operations by McKinney: Tennant Shoe Co., Fuchs & Neeman, Union Biscuit Co., James M. Houston Versteeg Shoe Co., Meyer Bros. Coffee and Spice Co., Jacobs Hat and Shoe Co., M. Schirff & Sons, Scudder-Gale Grocer Co., Friedman Bros. Shoe Co., W. H. Gilderhouse, Strauss Saddlery Co., Donnell Manufacturing Co., Wm. Schotten, St. Louis Coffee and Spice Co., Ferguson-McKinney Dry Goods Co. and Liechman-Goodman Clothing Co.

On account of the membership of these firms in the St. Louis Credit Men's Association, the association is determined, it is said, to make an example of McKinney. Heretofore wholesale houses losing small sums by transactions similar to those of which McKinney is accused, have usually been contented to divide the results of an assignment by the debtor.

PARDON AT HAND, HE LOST LIFE IN LEAP FOR LIBERTY

Workhouse Prisoner, Whom Mayor, Through Efforts of Relatives, Was About to Release, Leaped From Quarry Into River and Drowned.

SHOUTS A LAST MESSAGE TO HIS "FOLKS" AT HOME

Unaccustomed to Hard Labor, He Determined to Risk All in Attempt to Gain Freedom—Family Said to Be Well Known in Des Moines.

A few hours before he was to have been pardoned, M. C. Bennett of Des Moines, Io., made a dash for liberty from the workhouse quarries. Headed off and surrounded by armed guards, he leaped into the river.

"Send word to my folks," was the message he shouted to the guards just before the waters closed over his head for the last time.

Bennett had been sent to the workhouse for 50 days on the charge of trespassing at the Jefferson Hotel. He had four weeks yet to serve. Through efforts made by friends here and backed by his relatives, prominent people of Des Moines, the police recommended to Mayor Wells that the man be pardoned. Clerk Fortner of the Jefferson Hotel, who caused Bennett's arrest, had given his assent, and Friday morning Mayor Wells was to have pardoned him.

Not knowing that his friends were about to get him out, Bennett made the break for liberty which caused him to lose his life at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Bennett came to St. Louis at the time of the Democratic national convention and registered at the Jefferson Hotel. After a few days Clerk Fortner got an impression that Bennett might not pay and asked him to settle for his room. Bennett gave him a draft on his brother in Des Moines. A telegram to the brother was not answered and Bennett was notified to vacate.

He continued to spend his time around the hotel. On July 26 the clerk saw him enter the elevator and followed him upstairs. He found Bennett in one of the upper corridors and asked him what he was doing there. Bennett said he had come to see William Randolph Hearst. Mr. Hearst was not at the hotel or in the city, though his campaign headquarters were on the second floor of the hotel.

Fortner called Policeman Connell and had Bennett arrested. He was arraigned two days later in the City Hall police court and Judge Tracy fined him $25.

Preferred Risk of Death to Remaining.

He was sent to the workhouse, and, although unaccustomed to hard work he was put to work in the quarries at the foot of Osage street.

The confinement and work became unbearable and he resolved to risk his life in an attempt to escape.

At the present stage of the river the distance between the quarry and the water's edge is about 50 feet. The Iron Mountain track runs along the bank between the quarry and the water.

Seizing what seemed a favorable opportunity Thursday afternoon when he was near the railroad track and no guards were near, he made a break for liberty. He ran north along the railroad track as fast as he could. Guards at the northern rim of the quarry saw him, and clambering down the steep declivity, headed him off. He turned back, only to see other guards running toward him from the opposite direction. They raised their guns and commanded him to halt.

Preferring death to spending more time in the workhouse the man turned deliberately and ran to the water's edge and leaped in.

To the guards it seemed that he could not swim, or, at best, could swim but little. He disappeared and reappeared about 50 feet from the shore.

They pointed their weapons at him and called upon him to return to the shore, threatening to fire if he did not do so.

"I can't make it," they say he cried, "send word to my folks."

He went down again and did not reappear.

Bennett is said to be very well connected in Iowa. One brother, Louis, is a prominent politician, and another is in the coal business in Des Moines.

The movement to obtain the release of Bennett was started by Paul B. Grace of 3220 Vista avenue and J. Y. Fry of the Mechanics' National Bank, both formerly of Des Moines.

Mr. Fry was the first to learn that Bennett had been convicted and sent to the workhouse. He communicated the fact to Mr. Grace, and they immediately went to work to get him free.

A letter was sent to Peter Bennett, a brother of M. C. Bennett. He was out of Des Moines when the letter arrived and there was delay in receiving an answer on that account. The letter finally fell into the hands of Mrs. Swift, a sister of Bennett. Thursday afternoon an answer was received from her. She begged Mr. Fry and Mr. Grace to let her know what she could do to assist them in their efforts to obtain the release of her brother.

They immediately answered that they

ZIEGLER TRAIN GUARDS SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Illinois Central Train Carrying Miners to Stockade Fired Upon by Men Concealed Behind Stumps and Logs in Field.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ZIEGLER, Ill., Aug. 19.—No arrests have been made by the officers investigating the firing upon of the Illinois Central train carrying strike breakers to the Leiter stockade here, as told in the late editions of Thursday's Post-Dispatch.

The three wounded guards, whose names are withheld at the stockade hospital, will recover.

One of the wounded men was shot in the neck, a second in the arm and the third in the side. From the nature of their wounds it is evident both shotguns and rifles were used.

The appearance of an Illinois Central special, carrying 26 miners and nine guards, was awaited by the armed party concealed in a cornfield behind logs and stumps, just south of the switch on the Ziegler branch half a mile from the strikers headquarters at Camp Turner.

Fire was opened on the approaching special in a scattering volley, and continued for about five minutes in a desultory way. Especial efforts seemed to be made to hit the engineer, as many shots missed him only a few inches. Bullets played into the hardwood covering of the coach and caboose at all angles, showing a heavy fire both on the approach and retirement of the train.

Shots were plainly heard in Ziegler.

The trainmen returned under escort of United States deputies and Ziegler guards, which escort will remain with the train until it returns with another importation of laborers.

A rigid investigation is being made, but so far none of the attacking party has been identified.

The attack will not be allowed to stop the importation of workmen.

SEVEN OF NINE LIVES GONE.

Yet Nails, the Store Cat, Smiles and Licks His Paws.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

READING, Pa., Aug. 18.—Nails, a cat which lives in the hardware store of Hoff & Bros., has met enough accidents to have killed probably any dozen cats on earth, but he lives on in perfect health, and is still the prize rat catcher of the city.

Nails was born about 12 years ago. When he was a kitten he wandered into the hardware store, and had been there but a little while when a keg of nails rolled over him, smashing him flat. He howled about it for awhile, but finally resumed his normal shape, and so won the name of Nails. A partner was found for him, and was named Tacks, but the latter found Nails entirely too much of an adventurer, and left the store. Nails now rules supreme.

Once Nails fell into a barrel of varnish, and ought to have drowned therein, but he got out, and for six weeks was a porcupine After he had shed his varnished fur and had again become a sleek and diligent cat he tumbled into a barrel of oil and nearly died of it.

He then went to sleep under a delivery wagon, and it rolled over him. The clerks were discussing the proper method to dispose of his corpse, when he limped into the store and got into a fight with a dog—coming off victorious, as he always does.

He has whipped nearly every dog in Reading, and those he has not whipped are the dogs he has never seen. He has been run over by the store truck about once a month for years. He has killed about 2000 mice and half as many rats, and is ready for setting out any time with any other cat or any other dog on earth.

GAVE DRUGSTORE TO CHURCH.

Wonderful Enthusiasm Displayed by Worshipers at Holiness Meeting.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—With songs, cries and shouts of "Hallelujah," men and women came forward at the holiness camp meeting and tossed watches and jewelry on the altar. A druggist from Rockford, Ill., gave his drug store to the church declaring that "no man can be a druggist and be true to the doctrines of Christ." The store will be offered for sale at once.

It was the closing day of the holiness gathering, and the enthusiasm surpassed that of any other day. So enthusiastic did the congregation become, after the song service which opened the day's exercises, that the speakers found much difficulty in making themselves heard.

VLADIVOSTOK FLEET IS "TEMPORARILY" UNFIT

Russian Admiralty Admits the Proud Cruisers Gromoboi and Rossia Will Be Non Est for Service Until Extensive Repairs Are Made.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 19.—A feeling almost akin to despair reigns in the much tried Russian admiralty.

The official report of Vice-Admiral Skrydloff, coming on the heels of the known losses suffered by the Port Arthur squadron in its desperate sortie of Aug. 10 and the anxiety over the fate of the warships still unaccounted for, not only confirming the sinking of the Rurik, but showing that the injuries suffered by the Gromoboi and Rossia in the fight with Vice-Admiral Kamimura's squadron, were even greater than anticipated, completes the crushing nature of the blow to Russia's ill-starred naval forces in the far east.

So far as the immediate future is concerned, the admiralty does not disguise the fact that the Vladivostok squadron is destroyed.

The effect upon the public is most depressing.

The only consolation found is in the words of praise bestowed on the officers and men and the unequal character of the fight, Russian naval experts, by the system of coefficients, figuring that inferiority of the Vladivostok squadron in armor and guns was 69 to 200.

In some quarters of the navy there is also a disposition to censure Rear-Admiral Jessen for abandoning the Rurik, even though standing by her would have meant that the Gromoboi and Rossia would have shared her fate.

The chief mystery at the admiralty here is why Vice-Admiral Kamimura drew off when Admiral Jessen's ships were at his mercy. The only explanation is that his squadron must have suffered such damage that it could not continue the battle.

It is confirmed that the losses of officers and men on board the Rossia and Gromoboi were 50 per cent of the former and 25 per cent of the latter, showing the dreadful havoc caused by the fire from the Japanese ships, even at a range exceeding three miles.

Private reports says the decks of the Rossia were veritable shambles.

JAPS WONDERFUL MARKSMEN.

The most disheartening feature of the battle is the demonstration that the cannoneering of the Japanese is effective at a distance at which a hit by the Russians is an accident.

Admiral Skrydloff's report shows the Japanese opened the engagement at over six miles and that, within five minutes after firing the first shell, the Rurik was disabled by their extraordinary markmanship. Their first shells got the Russian range and the cruisers were exposed to a hail of missiles.

The Russians, on the other hand, made no hits at that distance and it was only at the three-mile range their shooting seemed to be effective.

In his report of the engagement Admiral Jessen says:

"Hardly five minutes passed before the Rurik left the ranks and signaled that her steering gear was disabled. I replied, 'Steer with the engines,' and continued on my former course.

"Seeing that all of the Japanese cruisers were concentrating their fire on the Rurik, all my subsequent maneuvering was exclusively with the object of enabling the Rurik to repair her damaged rudder.

"I attracted to myself the enemy's fire in order to cover the Rurik. (Admiral Jessen was on the flagship Rossia).

RIDDLED BY SHELLS.

"The battle continued for two hours in this manner. We suffered considerable damage. The Rossia had three funnels pierced, which prevented her from keeping up good steam, and three of her boilers were rendered useless.

"At 9:30 the Rurik began to lag behind considerably and again turned her bows toward the shore, at the same time fighting against the two second-class cruisers which had joined the enemy's squadron. The Rurik soon afterwards began to get out of sight.

"Shortly before 10 o'clock the enemy's fire was the most terrific of the battle, but, to our general astonishment, the whole Japanese squadron left us after the most deadly fight, which had lasted five hours.

"The Rossia had sustained 11 holes at her water line and the Gromoboi six. Both cruisers lost more than half their officers and the losses among the men totaled 25 per cent.

"It appeared impossible to renew the battle or to return to the Rurik, which was now 30 miles to the south.

"Taking advantage of the calm, we stopped our engines and quickly commenced to repair the breaches in our vessels, so as to enable us to proceed to Vladivostok.

"Capt. Berlinsky of the Rossia was killed and several of his officers were wounded. On board the Gromoboi two lieutenants were killed and other officers were wounded. Both cruisers had 135 men killed and 307 wounded. Capt. Berlinsky was buried at sea."

There is every reason to believe the Japanese land cannoneers are as accurate as those on the sea. This accounts for the speedy reduction of Port Arthur. They are simply putting the heavy defense guns out of action as unerringly as they would destroy infantry with rifles. When the guns are silent, the place will be taken by storm. The Russians now have no hope for a fortress they had expected to last two years in the face of any siege.

BOY SAVES TRAIN AT BURNING BRIDGE

After Notifying Officials, Heroic Claude Nickerson Goes to Bed Without Telling Parents.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 19.—Two hundred passengers on the southbound Union Pacific express last night owe their lives to the courage and presence of mind of 10-year-old Claude Nickerson of Valparaiso.

The youngster, while walking along the track from Mead, discovered that a long trestle was in flames. He ran two miles to notify the station men at his home town.

The express was brought to a standstill a few yards from the burning bridge by danger signals. The bridge fell while trainmen were alighting to ascertain the reason for the delay.

As there is a sharp curve around a bluff just before the bridge is reached by southbound trains, there is no chance that would have saved the express from plunging onto the burning bridge.

Nickerson, after telling the depot men of the burning bridge, went home to bed without mentioning the incident to his parents, and was sound asleep when the railroad employes informed the elder Nickerson what had happened.

Tramps are thought to have set fire to the bridge.

HEAVY MARBLE CEILING FALLS

Cigar Vender Had Narrow Escape From Being Crushed in Rialto Building Yobby.

Running for his life from the Rialto building, Fourth and Olive streets, John Hartsman, who conducts a cigar stand in the lobby on the first floor, was able to escape falling slabs of marble, which had become loosened from their position in the ceiling, and fell to the floor with a crash, a distance of 22 feet, breaking into many small fragments. Five of the slabs fell and struck at the spot where Hartsman had been standing, and where a few minutes before ten people had been discharged from an elevator car and had passed out of the building.

Each slab is two feet square and weighs about 80 pounds. They are set into the ceiling with screws and cement. In some manner five became loosened Thursday and fell a few minutes after 6 o'clock, after the greater number of people had left the building. Hartsman was engaged in locking his cigar cases when the first block of marble fell. Not knowing how much of the ceiling would fall, he ran into the street. He had not gained the doorway when four more pieces fell, shattering the show cases and spoiling a large stock of cigars.

The eighth wonder of the world—something that will indeed make you marvel—has just been found in the United States. All about it, with pictures, in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

MURPHY-McCARREN ROW UP TO NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Indications were strong last night that the national Democratic campaign managers had at last decided to interfere in the bitter personal feud between Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy and Senator Patrick H. McCarren of Brooklyn. With the making public of resolutions adopted by the Building Trades in Brooklyn protesting against the continuance of Senator McCarren as chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic state committee and a bitter personal attack on him in an interview by Mr. Murphy, the row between the rival leaders reached a stage so acute that it is felt that some action must be taken.

While neither Chairman Taggart of the national committee, Chairman Meyer of the state committee, nor any member of the national executive committee would admit that the matter had formally been taken up, there was evidence that convinced Democratic politicians that the affair was being seriously considered.

YOUNG GEORGE HESS FEARED ARREST

Boy Charged With Attacking Parents Explains Why He Hid New Revolver.

LAMAR, Mo., Aug. 19.—With the finding of a revolver hidden under the fence near the Hess home, local officers are more confident that they have rightly charged George Hess with the attack upon his father and mother in their sleeping room last Saturday morning.

Hess, when arrested, stoutly maintained that he had not purchased a revolver in this city last week, as charged. He was not pressed directly upon that point, but during several talks with him Sheriff Harlow gradually led him to talk about his visit to town and to admit inadvertently that he had bought the revolver.

When confronted with his unintentional confession, Hess admitted the purchase and told where he had hidden the weapon and a box of cartridges.

Hess explained that the revolver was found that after the attack upon his parents and the shooting of his father and the failure of the officers to find the culprit, he feared he might be arrested. Young Hess says he realized that if he was taken into custody the revolver could be used as evidence against him, and he thought he had better get rid of it. He gave the same reason for denying its purchase.

The revolver was found at the side of a road that would be convenient for the person who chased Mr. Hess from his house to use. The officers say other details point to the young man's guilt.

Young Hess is 19 years old. His parents are quite well off. There was much mystery in the raiding of their sleeping room and the wounding of the elder Hess. For two days the public was without a clue and then came the arrest of the boy. He maintains he was asleep when the attack occurred.

Sawyer, McElwee, Wood, Clingman and Ingalls Only Ones Left.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Survivors in the western golf championship at the Exmoor Country Club today found gloomy weather and heavy golfing conditions when they began the elimination play in the third round.

Former National Champion Louis N. James having been eliminated from the contest by his defeat yesterday at the hands of "Ned" Sawyer, only one man remains on that side of the draw—R. H. McElee. His colleagues in the third round were W. K. Wood, "Ned" Sawyer and Georgie Clingman. Fay Ingalls, Harvard champion, was the only out-of-town golfer left in the tourney as the result of the play in the second round.

ROBBERS BREAK JAW OF PLUCKY VICTIM

Joseph Smith Knocked One Out, But a Moment Later Went Out Himself.

Joseph Smith is at his home, 2143 Hickory street, suffering from a fractured jaw, as a result of an encounter with two highwaymen, on Washington avenue, near Eleventh street, last night.

When accosted by the men with a demand to hold up his hands, Smith refused to comply, but instead struck one of the robbers a telling blow in the face, staggering him. The other, who was holding a revolver in his hand, countered on Smith's jaw with the weapon, felling him to the pavement.

At this juncture the approach of other people caused the robbers to flee without attempting to go through Smith's pockets. Smith was soon able to walk to a car, going first to the city dispensary, where his wound was dressed and then to the police station, where he reported the assault and the attempt to rob him. He was unable to furnish an accurate description of the highwaymen.

Smith told the police that on account of the prominence of the place where the robbery was attempted he thought nothing of seeing the two men approach him, and was not prepared for them, although he saw them for fully a minute before he was accosted.

ONE DIVORCE TO 7 MARRIAGES.

Indiana State Statistician Surprises Residents With Figures.

Special to the Post Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 18.—One divorce to seven marriages is the ratio for Indiana during the last year, as shown by figures compiled by State Statistician Johnson. Owen County heads the list, with one divorce for every two marriages. Franklin County shows the most settled states of domestic affairs, with one divorce to thirty-one marriage certificates.

In the majority of divorce cases proceedings were instituted on account of abandonment and cruel treatment, more than 2000 of the 3673 in the state being granted for these causes. Drunkenness was the alleged cause of 344 separations, and 29 were due to criminal convictions. Husbands were the applicants in two of the cases filed on account of drunkenness.

Another startling piece of information disclosed by the report is that Clark County no longer heads the list for the number of marriages. This county for a long time was the Mecca for eloping couples, but Lake is now the banner country.

WOMAN ACTS LIKE A SNAKE.

Bitten by a Viper, She Tries to Crawl and Sticks Out Tongue.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Aug. 17.—Miss Stella Castille, a pretty girl of 18, bitten by a snake a few days ago, now acts like a reptile.

Miss Castille was out walking and stepped on a spreading viper. The snake bit her on the ankle. The girl returned home, but as the wound gave her no pain the family delayed calling in a physician when the girl showed violent symptoms.

Miss Castille has now taken on the ways of a snake. She tries to crawl, and at times sticks her tongue from her mouth like a reptile. She is seized with convulsions two or three times a day, when she is delirious and attempts to crawl out of the bed. At times she is rational and chats with the members of her family and friends who call to see her.

DREAMED ON THE INVENTION.

When Engle Awoke All He Did Was to Draw Plans.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 18.—William A. Engle, an engineer employed on the Pennsylvania railroad, who lives at this place, has received patents on a cut-off valve for locomotive steam chests, the principle of which came to him during a dream. So realistic was the device as pictured to him that he could not get it out of his mind and the result was his perfecting models and drawings and applying for patents.

Under the present system the steam chest cover is often taken off the wrong side before the true trouble in a steam chest, or cylinder, is located. As a means for getting away when there is a breakdown of this kind the new cut-off is efficacious.

Mrs. Gaskill was buried in the Hiawatha Cemetery, and her wishes in regard to the dog were carried out to the letter.

SUPPOSED FRIEND KILLED PHYSICIAN

Dr. Samuel L. Chapin of Saybrook Mortally Wounded by Man He Had Assisted.

HIS ASSAILANT IS ARRESTED

No Warning of Attack Made on Dark Roadway—Able to Drive Home.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAYBROOK, Ill., Aug. 19.—While driving home, after paying a visit to a patient, Dr. S. L. Chapin was accosted upon the road near here at 9:30 o'clock last night and fatally shot by a man named Wilkinson. It was very dark on the road, and Dr. Chapin stopped when he heard some one ask, "Is that Dr. Chapin?"

He responded and was dragged from the buggy and struck with a club. Dr. Chapin struggled to his feet and was getting into the buggy, when he was shot from behind, the bullet lodging in the abdomen. Dr. Chapin reached his home and gave the name of his assailant before losing consciousness. He died this morning.

Wilkinson made no effort to escape. He was arrested shortly after Dr. Chapin's injury became known, and was taken to the county jail at Bloomington. Dr. and Mrs. Chapin practically have reared one of Wilkinson's daughters, sending her to school and giving her a home at their residence.

She recently left there and Wilkinson charges that Dr. Chapin abused her. He does not make the charge specific.

Dr. Chapin was 50 years old and comes from one of the oldest and most prominent families in central Illinois. He left a wife and three children. Dr. Charles Chapin of this city is his brother.

Wilkinson is a gray-haired man of 70 and says he came to Saybrook yesterday and bought a revolver there, lying in wait by the residence to right the alleged wrongs done to his family name. He has been traveling of late for a Chicago furniture company and has lived at Saybrook at different times.

HELD HIS HEAD UNDER WATER

River Was Not Deep, but August Walters Had Will Power to End Life.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Aug. 18.—Crazed by religious enthusiasm, August Walters, 50, a tailor, this afternoon waded into Eel river at Riverside park, where open air services were in progress, and held his head under water until drowned.

The water is only four feet deep at that point.

The crowd was just assembling when Walters, who had been a regular attendant at these meetings, suddenly rushed out into the stream. Before he could be prevented he had drowned himself. His body was recovered.

RIVER WAS SHEET OF FLAME.

Waste Oil Caught Fire and Muncie Had General Alarm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

MNUCIE, Ind., Aug. 18.—Oil on the surface of White river was set on fire in the center of the city and burned fiercely for almost an hour.

At this point in the river the oil had gathered in a pool that was also clogged with roots and trunks of trees and other debris. Crowds of people ran to the vicinity, as the huge clouds of smoke made it appear as if a vast conflagration was sweeping the city. All the fire companies were in readiness to prevent fires along the river banks for squares.

The oil comes from the great oil fields east of Muncie, through the heart of which the river and its tributaries flow.

JABS MAN WITH AN UMBRELLA.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DELPHI, Ind., Aug. 18.—While several thousand people were in the streets during the old settlers' meeting, Charles Stevens, a country youth, was struck in the eye with the point of an umbrella in the hands of Miss Nora Quinn.

Stevens, who was seriously injured, it is said, made a remark to the young woman which she resented, and which provoked the attack. Stevens was taken to a hotel, where he was unconscious for some time.

SPIELER TRIED TO ROPE GRAND JUROR

Member of Clayton's Investigating Body Caused Arrest of Barker for Improper Show.

WAS LOOKING FOR EVIDENCE

First Went to Creve Coeur, But Learning Nothing There, Was Rewarded Near Delmar Garden.

Paul D. Cable, a member of the special grandjury in St. Louis County, found really more than he was looking for when he went to Creve Coeur lake and Delmar Garden on a private search for evidence to present to the body of which he is a member. Cable, accompanied by Clinton Huber, foreman of the grandjury, went to Creve Coeur lake with the expectation of picking up some gambling evidence. They remained there some time without learning anything of value and started home in disgust. Upon reaching Delmar Garden Cable suggested that they visit some alleged resorts in that vicinity and see what evidence could be procured. Huber declined, but Cable decided to go it alone.

He had not been long off the car before he was approached by a stranger, who suggested a willingness to conduct him to a point of vantage to see a real "hoochee-coochee" show. Cable was shocked and expressed his opinion of such shows and of people who had anything to do with them. The stranger then made some remarks relative to Sunday school scholars. At that moment Sheriff Hencken and Deputy Constable George Walters approached, the stranger ran. He was pursued by the constable and by Cable. They overtook him after running a block, and he was turned over to the sheriff. He gave his name as Charles Belcher. A warrant was issued in Justice Campbell's court, charging him with disturbing the peace and he was locked in jail at Clayton. He will be tried before Justice Campbell in De Hodiamont today.

Fifteen Yankee Warships Are on Guard, But Administration Decides That, for Present, They Shall Only Protect American Interests.

UNITED SATTES SHIPS ON CHINESE STATION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—"It is not our fight, and, as matters stand now, we will take no hand in it," declared a high government official today.

Hurried conferences have been held between the navy, state and executive departments over what shall be done if Japan caries out her threat to go to Shanghai after the Russian cruiser Askold and the torpedo boat destroyer Grozovol.

Rear-Admiral Yates Stirling, commander of the Asiatic fleet, is at Shanghai with nine warships. He virtually commands the port, and the question was whether any specific order should be sent him.

The question was decided in the negative. This means that for the present Admiral Stirling will confine himself to protecting American interests.

Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, gave Secretary Hay today a copy of Japan's notice to China announcing that the Russian warships at Shanghai must either be dismantled immediately or forced to put to sea, and that the Chinese harbors must not be used as ports of refuge in which Russian ships can be extensively repaired.

For Present America Will Simply Watch.

Soon after Mr. Takahira left the state department, Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng, the Chinese minister, called.

The navy department was straightway informed of Japan's notification. Acting-Secretary Darling and Rear-Admiral Converse, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, agreed that, unless the administration desired to take a hand in the affair, it would not be necessary to send Admiral Stirling any instruction, as he would follow his general orders and hold aloof as long as American interests were not jeoardized, and then act only to protect them.

Then Secretary Hay went to the White House, where it was decided to send Stirling no instruction.

It was recognized that, on account of the powerful fleet at Admiral Stirling's disposal, a hint from him would be sufficient to induce China either to give up the Russian ships to the Japanese without resistance or to fight for them, but that hint will not be given.

Formidable Fleet in Asiatic Waters.

The American squadron at Shanghai consists of the battleships Wisconsin (flagship) and Oregon, the monitor Monadnock, the gunboat Villalobos and the torpedo boats Bainbridge, Decatur, Dale, Barry and Chauncey. Six other ships of the Asiatic fleet are in adjacent waters.

The Callao is at Maoao, the El Cano at Hankow, the Helena at Canton, the Raleigh at Chemulpo and the Cincinnati and Frolic at Chefoo.

Six colliers are attending the fleet.

The possibility of trouble in China has been recognized for a long time and Admiral Stirling, following instructions, has quietly distributed practically his whole fleet through the threatened zone so that they would be immediately available for the protection of American interests or any other purpose.

The American ships constitute the dominating force at Shanghai, and as they will take no part in any clash between Japan and China it is expected that the ships of the other powers will follow their example.

Six warships of other neutral nations are also reported to be at Shanghai.

BAD BREATH

"For months I had great trouble with my stomach and used all kinds of medicines. My tongue has been actually as green as grass, my breath having a bad odor. Two weeks ago a friend recommended Cascarets and after using them I can willingly and cheerfully say that they have entirely cured me. I therefore let you know that I shall recommend them to any one suffering from such troubles." Chas. H. Halpin, 139 Irvington St., New York, N.Y.

REPEATERS WANTED FOR ST. LOUIS DAY

"Indians" Will Have Chance of Their Lives to Make Record for Their Wards.

OUT OF GATE, THEN BACK IN

By Keeping Turnstile Busy, Business Men Hope 500,000 Mark Will Be Reached.

St. Louis Day at the World's Fair, Sept. 15, is going to be a great day for repeaters. St. Louis "Indians" will have the chance of their lives to repeat with impunity. For once repeating will not only not be against the law, but the repeater will be glorified. The man who repeats the most will be the biggest man in his ward.

The repeating is to be done at the gates of the Fair. For the greater glory of St. Louis, citizens of St. Louis will enter the gates early and often.

To prove that they are game, they will plank down 50 cents every time they walk out through a turnstile and double back through a pay gate.

All this is to be done in order that when the day is done the turnstiles may have a tale of 500,000 admissions to tell. That is what the people of St. Louis want the turnstiles to tell, and they will repeat to make sure that there is no deficiency.

That was the way that Chicago rolled up her 757,000 on Chicago day. It was not that there were that many individuals who attended the Chicago Exposition on that day. Not at all. Repeating swelled the total.

St. Louis is not as large as Chicago, and, therefore, has fewer citizens who are willing to repeat for the good of the cause, but if conscientious repeating does any good the 500,000 mark will be reached.

The prospects are that the day will be a complete holiday in St. Louis. It is planned to make the shutdown of business complete.

L. D. Kirgsland, who has been laboring with the manufacturers, says almost all of them will close all day. Some of them are talking like they will only close half a day, but he thinks these will come into line, too. The milling men have agreed to close. The Washington avenue wholesale houses will be closed as tight as wax.

Work is being done among all the branches of business by subcommittees of the Business Men's League, and they are getting promises to close up all along the line.

The Simmons Hardware Co. will close all day and give all of the employes tickets to the Fair. Other firms will do the same.

All of the special features for the day will be at the Fair. There will be none outside to detract from the big show.

The state buildings will probably be used as headquarters for different organizations. The women of St. Louis will extend hospitality at the Missouri building.

All in all, the day will be in all respects the greatest of the Fair.

Arranging to Receive Prince Henry.

A committee is arranging to receive and entertain the brother of the German Emperor, Prince Henry, upon his contemplated visit to the World's Fair this fall. Were he here tomorrow his attention would, no doubt, be directed to the great "Choice of the House, $6" suit sale at the Globe. See page 3.

FINE ARTS MYSTIFIED RUSTICS

"Demon and Python, Romeo and Remus," Explained Sage to His Younger Companion.

Of the educational effect of the Fine Arts buildinf there can be no doubt. Two elderly gentlemen from the country were strolling among the statuary. Said the younger, "Who are them two?"

The elder gentleman shook up his knowledge of mythology and made answer. "That's Demon and Python. They was friends same as Jonathan and David. I guess that other couple is Romeo and Remus. They was in the building trade at the time Rome was built."

"What's this?" asked the younger man coming before another picture.

"Helen of Troy," answered the rustic sage. Jupiter wanted her and took her from Troy and kept her in Paris. In Paris they judged her the best looking woman in them parts."

They passed out of the building and discussed doing a Pike show. The younger man was for "Paris," the elder suggested "Hereafter."

"What is this show anyway?" asked the novice. Why, said the sage, "it's all about what happens when we're dead. Guess it's founded on the Infernal City of Dante."

"Dante?" queried the learner. "I've heard of Doyle. Is Dante another of them preachers?"

And if you cut out the Meat

There's a gain in cost as well as

Strength and Health

Try it a bit, say for breakfast—

A little Fruit,
A dish of Grape-Nuts and cream
Two slices of hard toast,
A cup of Postum Food Coffee.

That's all, and you feel "like a lord."

Same for lunch.

Then have a good meat and vegetable dinner.

Such meals will put one right in body and brain.

TRY IT

FAILS IN ROLE OF A SPARTAN FATHER

Alton Man Caused Arrest of Son for Forgery and Then Refused to Prosecute.

THE YOUTH WANTED TO MARRY

When Captured by the Police, Parent's Heart Softened and Boy Will Go Free.

George Oliver, an East Alton business man, has failed in the role of the Spartan father.

He has been playing it for a week in the case of his son, Harry, who is 21 years of age, and who is charged by his father with having forged checks to secure money with which to get married.

The young man disappeared from home several days ago, and his father reported to the sheriff of Madison County that his son had cashed by forgery two checks taken from the East Alton postoffice.

The St. Louis chief of police was notified, and Sheriff Crowe came down from Alton to assist in the search for young Oliver. Together with Detectives Kelly and Bremen, the sheriff found the youth and locked him up, awaiting the father's pleasure.

The parent declared he would prosecute his son, and asked that Harry be taken back to Illinois. The boy refused to return without a requisition and one was issued.

He was taken to Alton and his father says he secured from the son a confession that he forged the checks for the purpose of getting married. He was arrested before he had arranged for the wedding, but whom he was to marry he does not say.

Friday morning the elder Oliver appeared at the Alton police station and announced that he could not prosecute the boy. Harry was released, and father and son went home together.

ARIZONA GIRL IS COMMISSION'S WARD

When Friends Failed to Meet Her Miss Lapham Went Straight to State Building.

Miss Olivia Lapham of Prescott, Ariz., has an idea that state and territory buildings and commissions are for other than merely ornamental uses. When Miss Lapham found herself alone in this big city, through the failure of her friends to meet her, she did not forget that she was from Arizona and she promptly placed herself under the protection of the flag of her commonwealth. She deemed the Arizona building the most suitable asylum for an Arizona young woman alone in a big city, and she went straight to the Arizona building.

She had a hope that she might find somebody there whom she knew. Disappointed in that expectation, she did not turn to any other state or territory for advice and direction. She had an idea that Arizona advice was best for an Arizona girl. She told the commissioners all about it, and the commissioners now have a ward.

The commissioners gallantly accepted the responsibility, and secured a room for Miss Lapham at the Laclede Hotel. She will remain there until her friends appear. She supposes that her telegram failed to reach them in time, but anticipates that they will learn of her presence in the city and call at the hotel.

Miss Lapham is the daughter of a prominent business man of Prescott.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE FAIR

By ROSE MARION.

AMUSEMENT was her one desire. Religiously or rather conscientiously, she'd done the serious part of the Fair all day.

To her companion who had compelled the serious regard of the exhibits she finally showed signs of rebellion. The companion wanted to know what she cared to do by way of amusement.

"Let's go ride on the cynical wheel," suggested the tired one.

BRAYING was loud in the grading camp outside the Fair. All the mules were taking part with a vengeance. The subject of their bray was the horse show that will open Monday at the Fair.

"Have they asked us?" asked an old mule with a sneering bray. "Guess not; that would be too much to expect of them."

"Maybe we'll get an invitation at least to look on or maybe to eat the left over hay," said the young hopeful mule that hasn't learned discouragement as yet.

"You're talking nonsense, child," said the old gray. "We'll be invited to stay at home—and yet"—before he could finish his sentence, the other mules were joining in their old bray, "Who made the Fair? Who made the Fair?" and the answer—"Mules, Missouri mules!"

DIVORCE SUIT BY SUGGESTION

Wife Comes From Denver on False Report of Suit—Will Return and Do the Suing.

Mrs. Alma Davis came to St. Louis from Denver to resist a divorce suit which she understood had been filed against her in St. Louis by William B. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been separated nine years. Mrs. Davis has been living in Denver, but her husband has not known where she was. A few days ago she heard that he had sued for divorce, and that an order of publication had been issued.

She arrived in St. Louis Friday and went direct to the office of the circuit clerk. It was found that no divorce suit was pending against her.

Mrs. Davis says she will return to Denver and file suit for divorce against her husband.

PERMANENT STATE BUILDINGS AT FAIR

Oregon, Washington and Maine Structures Can Easily Be Retained After Exposition Is Over.

BUILT OF SPRUCE, CEDAR, FIR

Many Offers of Purchase Have Been Received From Individuals for These Buildings.

The popularity of the state buildings of Maine and Oregon prove the wisdom of the Sunday Post-Dispatch suggestion that these two buildings should be retained as permanent structures when Forest Park resumes its wonted peace and the great World's Fair of 1904 is over.

A third building of great popularity is the Washington State building, which is built of Washington fir, finished in spruce and cedar. It is a five-story edifice, with what would be called flying buttresses were it built of stone. Many offers of purchase have already been received, but E. E. Jonnston, Washington's secretary, says that his state would gladly welcome any scheme that would allow the building to stay where it is.

The Maine building, representing a Maine hunting lodge, is also being sought, in most cases by gentlemen who want to use this log cabin as a hunting box. The lodge is built entirely of spruce. Twenty-five car loads of timber were used in its construction. There are eight lofty bedrooms, a ladies' parlor, bathroom and kitchen.

The Oregon building, another of the state log cabins on the World's Fair grounds, is a replica of Fort Clatsop, which was the winter quarters of Capt. Meriwether Lewis and William Clark in 1805. The building is of fir, spruce and larch and has a stockade running around the back with two blockhouses at two of the corners, just as the pioneers were wont to build their shacks 100 years ago.

Ladies' Board Got a Scare.

It was Helen May Butler day at the Rhode Island building Thursday, and when the famous ladies' military brass band assembled on the porch of the building and commenced tuning up the fair musicians received a scare. The lady operating the big bass horn discovered something amiss with her instrument. A squeak and a rattle sounded ominous, and some wag whispered "mouse." Hurriedly the fair musician unwound the poisonous horn from around her body, while her fair colleagues drew up their pink skirts. With heroic determination Miss Bass Horn shook the instrument, while every musician held her breath. There was a final rattle and out leaped—not a mouse, but a diminutive pebble.

PAIN'S GREATEST FIREWORKS DISPLAY.

Thousands of rockets in as many colors will make the sky the grandest sight ever witnessed in America. This exhibition will start at 8 p. m. in the Stadium, World's Fair grounds, tonight. Admission to Stadium free; seats, 10c; chairs, 25c; boxes, 50c. In case of bad weather postponed until following evening.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES

The Building Trades Council of East St. Louis will hold its Labor Day celebration this year at the World's Fair, and will participate in the parades and other events arranged for the labor unions on that day. T. D. Wyatt, who has been appointed chairman of the Labor Day committee of the East St. Louis organization, will confer with the St. Louis committee regarding the arrangements. He states that East St. Louis will send at least 1200 union men to take part in the events planned. A number of athletic events, for which prizes will be offered, will be given.

Favor Phonetic Spelling.

The adoption of a system of phonetic spelling in the United States is being advocated before the National shorthand reporters' convention in session in the Hall of Congresses at the World's Fair by a number of the members of the association. Ben Pitman, one of the oldest and best known stenographers in the country, read at Thursday afternoon's session a long paper on the subject, in which he estimated that $3,000,000 a day would be saved the people of the United States by the adoption of the system. This would be in time saved by stenographers in transcribing their shorthand notes.

Illuminated Street Signs.

The landscape department at the World's Fair is at work posting illuminated signs on the many thoroughfares that visitors may find their way about the grounds without being compelled to make frequent stops to inquire the location of the points to which they desire to go. The signs are much the same as those used on the streets of St. Louis, except that the letter are in gold upon a background of blue. Nearly all the plazas and thoroughfares in the main picture of the Exposition are placarded and the signs will be placed on all parts of the grounds as rapidly as they can be furnished.

Library at Missouri Building.

Notices have been sent to officers of the World's Fair by F. M. Crunden, librarian of the St. Louis Public Library and also librarian of the Missouri commission, that a library of 8000 volumes is now at the disposal of all persons resident or employed at the World's Fair, and in addition, that persons desiring books not in the collection of 8000, may draw on the 175,000 volumes in the St. Louis Public Library. The library at the World's Fair is in the east wing of the Missouri Building.

Sweet Potato Weighs 40 Pounds.

A mammoth sweet potato weighing 40 pounds in the Louisiana exhibit in the Palace of Agriculture has sprouted and the vine has run a distance of 40 feet around the walls of the Louisiana section. The vine is one has a dozen or more blooms on it. The flowers are large and resemble the appearance of a big morning glory. The sweet potato is of a variety known as the Chinese yam and is raised in Louisiana to fatten hogs.

Parker-Folk Club Formed.

At a smoker held at Bushler's Hall, Taylor and Easton avenues, last night, Democrats of the Twenty-sixth ward launched a Parker-Folk Club, enrolling over two hundred members. The following officers were elected: James J. Nash, president; Patrick B. Comer, vice-president; John Concannon, secretary; P. O'Malley, treasurer; A. Rayne, M. G. Byron, sergeants-at-arms. Addresses were delivered by Judge W. J. Hanley, Joseph T. Netteler and others.

PRESIDENT FEARS RIOTS IN NEW YORK

Time of Arrival of Oyster Bay Party Saturday Will Be Kept Secret.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The President will leave for Oyster Bay Saturday morning in a private car attached to one of the regular Pennsylvania trains.

On account of the labor troubles in New York and the possible danger that the President might encounter some disturbance in driving across the city from Twenty-third to Thirty-fourth street, it will not be known until he starts whether he will take the 8:30 or 10 o'clock train. He probably will go on the latter. He will be accompanied by Secretary Loeb and a dozen White House clerks and messengers.

Mr. Roosevelt will stay at Oyster Bay until Sept. 20. He will receive few callers except politicians of high rank, for whom appointments will be made by Chairman Cortelyou. All others who want to see the President must reckon with Secretary Loeb.

G. A. R. Veterans Going Home.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The chief events of encampment week being over, many of the veterans of the G. A. R. have left for home. There was, however, still a large contingent remaining in the city to take part in various excursions arranged in their honor and which will continue throughout tomorrow. Business sessions were planned today by the Daughters of Veterans and Sons of Veterans, both organizations having to elect national officers and consider other routine matters.

FIGHT OVER SPOIL? POLICE HOLD TRIO

Soon After Capturing Three Combatants, Police Learn of a Robbery Near By.

James McKey, Nick Lannon and John Harroll are prisoners at the Four Courts on charges of fighting. They were arrested shortly before the police learned of the robbery of Joseph Brown of Burlington, Io., who lost $33 and a watch while asleep in a Market street saloon Thursday night.

Sergt. Flanagan and Patrolman Eich of Central station ran down to a saloon at Seventh and Chestnut streets early Friday morning in response to a telephone message stating that a terrible fight was in progress.

As they entered the saloon, panting for breath, they found McKey, Lannon and Harroll struggling desperately. Harroll was in the act of drawing a knife.

The three were arrested with difficulty and taken to the Four Courts. When Harroll was searched $32 and a watch were found on his person. From remarks made by the struggling men, the police say, they were led to believe that money was the cause of the fight.

An hour later while on his beat, Sergt. Flanagan met Joseph Brown of Burlington, Io., who reported that $33 and a watch had been stolen from him as he slept in a Market street saloon. Flanagan took Brown to Central station, and the latter identified the watch taken from Harroll as his property, and partially identified the money by the denominations of the bills.

So They Are.

[LY]NCHING HAS DRIVEN MANY NEGROES AWAY

Burning of Reed and Cato Frightens All Classes of Colored People and They Hasten to Leave Bullock County Confines.

WHITES SEEK TO EXCLUDE ONLY THE BAD ELEMENT

Pastor Gaines a Fugitive—Youth Tries to Send Bones to Roosevelt—Bitter Criticism of Militia and Threatened Disbandment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STATESBORO, Ga., Aug. 19.—The exodus of negroes following the burning to death by the mob of the condemned murderers, Cato and Reed, continues. The terrible punishment meted out to the slayers of Henry Hodges and his family has made a profound impression on the negroes, and all of them are frightened, notwithstanding that there is no desire to harm the better class of the colored people.

The feeling of the negroes threatens a shortage of labor in the cotton fields, where cotton picking is soon to commence.

Reports from the country hereabouts tell of various whippings of disreputable negroes, and of the intention of the people to clear Bullock County of them. There are also stories of the shooting of negroes, but none of these are substantiated. Offers of assistance in subduing the negroes have been received from Brunswick, Valdosta and other points in the state.

Gaines, head of the largest negro church in the county, accused by Reed of being the chief conspirator of the Before Day Club, has left. Reed said that Gaines was under bond to pay a certain sum of money, and instituted the plan of murder for the purpose of raising money to discharge his debt.

A thoughtless young man placed the bones of the burned negroes in a box and shipped them by express to President Roosevelt, accompanied by a note saying that Reed and Cato were two negroes with whom he would never eat. The box was taken from the express office by wiser citizens, who convinced the young man that he was doing a foolish thing.

The negro shot by a posse that thought him to be Handy Bell has not been identified.

The officers of the local military company are preparing to send their resignations to the governor. Leading citizens are endeavoring to dissuade them from this intention. An officer declared that the members of the company were required to give up loaded cartridges issued, and that other and smaller cartridges were issued to fewer than half a dozen soldiers. He said that orders were given that there should be no firing. The local men lay the blame on the officer in command, Capt. Hitch of the Savannah company.

Charges Against Poorhouse Doctors.

The Board of Health will, at its meeting next Thursday, take up the charges filed before it by Superintendent Hart of the Poorhouse against Drs. Chiles and Keaney and Chief Clerk Dierkes, who were dismissed in the interest of "harmony." The filing of the charges was the result of Mayor Wells' action in declining to pass upon the cases. He refused to consider the cases, when they were taken to him, and pointed out that only the Board of Health could act, and then only after charges had been preferred against the men.

St. Ferdinand Church Festival.

The annual church festival of St. Ferdinand's parish at Florissant, St. Louis County, will be held next Wednesday on the church grounds. St. Ferdinand's Church, which is the oldest church in St. Louis County, has been recently redecorated, and the proceeds of the festival will be devoted to meeting this expense. A large number of former members of this church are now living in St. Louis, and the present pastor, Rev. F. G. Hillman, hopes to make the coming festival a reunion for many of these.

Policeman Cut Barber's Rate.

P. H. McManus of Wilkesbarre, Pa., a stranger in the city, has reported to the police that an attempt was made to charge him extortionate prices at a Market street barber shop soon after his arrival in the city. He says the barber gave him a shave and a face massage and he then had his shoes shined. The charge made was $1.25. An argument was begun and a policeman sent for, but before he arrived the barber compromised for 40 cents.

UNQUESTIONABLE SUPERIORITY

The evening and Sunday morning newspapers are essentially the best advertising mediums, just as surely as the woman of the household is the best buyer. The newspaper that goes directly into the home at a time when the family has the leisure and the inclination to read it has numerous advantages over its week-day morning contemporary, which makes its appearance at the breakfast hour and is cast aside in the haste for business and household cares which always follow the morning meal. The modern evening or Sunday morning newspaper brings the news of the day to the home during the leisure hours, and when the different members of the family have ample time to read it carefully. The shopping tours of the morrow are invariably planned with the aid of the advertising columns of the evening and Sunday morning newspaper.

LATEST NEWS AND NOTES FROM THE WORLD OF SPOR

CORBETT ENJOINED; SPLIT THREATENED

Manager Hanlon Restrains Former Brooklyn Player Before National Baseball Commission.

The National baseball commission, in session at Cincinnati, handed down a decision today forbidding Joe Corbett to play with any baseball club in the national association until the claim of the Brooklyn club on his services has been settled.

The order is in the nature of a temporary injunction issued by the highest court of baseball law. Corbett was released unconditionally by the Brooklyn club, and went out to the coast to play on the Frisco team. He was claimed by Manager Hanlon of the Brooklyn club, who took the matter to the national commission and asked that Corbett be restrained from playing until his claim had been considered. His request was granted and the bulletin published.

The evidence of both sides of the cases is now being prepared for the national commission. The result will be watched with the keenest interest throughout baseball circles as the case is unique in many features.

Corbett has given out repeatedly that he would rather retire from the game than go to Brooklyn, and he evidently means what he says. If he is ordered there, as he certainly will be, it will add to the growing bitterness on the coast against the National association, and strengthen the steadily increasing feeling for a break from baseball law to go back to the old unregenerate outlaw days.

The coast magnates are squirming under the drafts of the major leaguers who come in and take the pick of their players without "by your leave" or "thank you." They have a good paying circuit and can afford to pay their men well, and it would occasion no particular surprise to have the inevitable split come this year.

ST. LOUISAN WINS PONY RACE

Charles G. Gates Surprises His Friends at Saratoga.

Charles G. Gates, who was raised in St. Louis and has been regarded as a St. Louisan more than ever since he married a daughter of S. G. Edgar of Lindell boulevard, distinguished himself at Saratoga the other morning by winning a pony race from Walter Scheftel, a prominent Wall street broker, who came into prominence on the turf as the owner of High Ball, the American Derby winner of 1904.

Charlie Gates is a mighty hefty young man and his St. Louis friends will doubtless be surprised to learn that he has a clever seat in the saddle.

Messrs. Gates and Scheftel were nagging each other at the Saratoga track the other morning as to their respective skill in the saddle. A match race was hurriedly arranged and Charlie Gates won the match on a dun-colored pony that displayed a most unexpected burst of speed for the half mile.

MAHER LEADS JOCKEYS.

Little American Rider Rode 10 Winners Out of 17 Mounts.

Dannie Maher, the American jockey, who has been riding with so much success for several seasons on the English turf, established a wonderful record in the saddle during the Stockton summer meeting, riding ten winners, four seconds and one third out of 17 mounts. Maher has the best percentage of winning mounts of any jockey on the English turf. Otto Madden leads the winning race riders of the English turf, but his percentage of winning mounts falls away below Maher's.

Maher went to England to ride for Pierre Lorillard, and when the latter died he signed with the Duke of Devonshire. He is still with him.

Cartoonist Edgren's Forecast of Svengali McCoy at the Ringside

M'COY TEACHING BIG JACK MUNROE A FEW THINGS

Butte Miner Is Getting Some Fine Points of the Ring Under Generalship of the Clever "Kid," Preparing for His Fight With Jeffries.

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

The Noted Cartoonist and Expert on Pugilism.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"Kid" McCoy, the ring fox, has begun coaching Jack Munroe at Sea Beach Tavern, San Francisco, for his fight with Jeffries on the 26th.

During the seven days that intervene Munroe will learn things about the fighting game that he never dreamed of before.

McCoy trained the miner for his fight with Tom Sharkey, and credit is due the Hoosier for the manner in which Munroe carried off the honors. It was McCoy's fight all the way. In Munroe's corner, watching every movement of both men, McCoy stood. As soon as the bell rang and Munroe came back for the interval of rest, the "Kid" leaned over him, and in short, snappy sentences gave him his fighting orders for the next round.

McCoy was the general and Munroe was the army.

During the training, which was done in the "Kid's" gymnasium on Forty-second street, McCoy punched and punched Munroe, hitting the same blows that are used by Sharkey, until the miner finally learned how to avoid or block them. He taught Jack the best way to get home smashes on the rugged sailor, and how to land on the weak spots. Munroe's battle was made to order by McCoy, and his work fit better than that of any tailor on Broadway.

MUNROE HAS SENSE.

Munroe is not altogether without sense, and he realizes just what the clever "Kid" accomplished. He gives credit to McCoy, instead of taking it all himself. Munroe, now that McCoy is on the field, will work with doubled confidence.

The McCoy brain, working Svengali- like in the body of Munroe, will do much to offset the boilermaker's bulk and cleverness.

McCoy takes delight in marking any man who trains with him. When Munroe was working for the fight with Sharkey the "Kid" blackened both of the miner's eyes. Munroe says that a black eye is his mascot and that he never will lose a fight when he goes into the ring with one or two of them. Like all men who work underground, the miner is superstitious. He told me a while ago that he believed the first time he fought without taking a black eye into the ring with him he would be whipped.

DOES LITTLE HARD HITTING.

When training under the coaching of "Kid" McCoy, Munroe does very little hard hitting himself. He is satisfied to let the "Kid" do all that and to take whatever comes. He boxes cautiously, letting McCoy land, studying the effect of his punches and trying to figure out how to get in a return. If Munroe has one particular fault as a fighter it is that he studies too much in the ring. He is a little too cool and deliberate. He is big and strong enough to go in and punch with any one. Terry McGovern never won his battles by studying out blows and guards. He always piled in on top of his man and slugged as fast as possible. If Munroe did the same thing with a fighter like Jeffries, who is clever as well as big and strong, he would have a better chance of winning.

McCoy trained Munroe to fight Sharkey with the style best calculated to beat him. He has watched Jeffries in many of his best fights and he is able to pick out a way for the miner to win if it is in Munroe's bone and muscle to do the trick.

Funny, isn't it, how "Kid" McCoy keeps on Tommy Ryan's train? First he tricked Ryan into a match and beat him. Now, when Ryan has the credit for making Jeffries champion, the "Kid" is trying to coach up a new champion to beat Jeff.

GLEASON MAY NOT PLAY AGAIN

Injury Received While Facing the Athletics Threatens to Permanentyl Disable Him.

Another calamity has been added to the Browns' long list of misfortunes by the announcement that Harry Gleason, the clever utility man, will probably be forced to withdraw permanently from the game.

Gleason stated yesterday that the left side of his head is still numb from his injury two weeks ago, and that the right side of his body seems to be partially paralyzed. His physician has already advised against his playing again, but Gleason will have a final examination made and if the result is unfavorable he will send his resignation to Manager McAleer.

Gleason's retirement is due to an injury sustained here Aug. 2 in a game with the Athletics, when he was struck in the head by one of Waddell's wild inshoots. Gleason dropped unconscious and was removed to a sanitarium, where he remained several days. He has been practicing with the Browns for almost a week, but the ill effects of the injury have never left him.

WOULDN'T SPRINT WITH DEATH

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Victor Rice of the University of Chicago, western college champion sprinter, and regarded by many as the coming champion of the world in the short distances, has broken down and will probably never run on the cinder path again.

He has been suffering with kidney trouble for some time and after a thorough examination by a specialist he has been ordered to desist from violent exercise of any kind if he wished to avoid fatal consequences. Rice quit training immediately.

KID HUBERT IS GOOD SPRINTER

But His Legs Couldn't Save Him From Andy Walsh After Three Rounds.

A sneaking little short left in the pit of the stomach put Kid Hubert of Louisville down for the count in the third round of what was to have been a 15-round bout with Andy Walsh of Brooklyn at the West End Club Thursday night.

Hubert was never a factor in deciding the bout. His size made Walsh a little wary in the opening round, but when he saw that he had a gift he went in to take it.

Hubert had neither speed, science nor nerve. He ran all over the ring whenever Walsh feinted him and in the second round he dropped almost every time he was hit. In this way he managed to spend a large portion of the evening on the mat and stave off his finish for a few minutes.

In the third round Walsh sailed in and in a few minutes slipped a short stiff-arm punch into Hubert's stomach. The Louisville man went down on his face evidently out. He struggled up, but went down again without being struck and had to be helped to his corner.

The best bout of the evening was the six-round semi-windup between Kid Nelson and Al Tofte at 128 pounds. Tofte was the weaker man of the two and Nelson is a perfectly built young fellow with a spectacular punch. Tofte proved himself a deceptive hitter, for after he had stopped a few windmill swings he mixed with the strong man and outpunched.

In the rough work in the clinches, Nelson wrestled Tofte around without apparent effort, but he was sent clean off his legs in the second round with a right swing to the jaw and in the fifth a right to the jaw and a sharp rap in the stomach put him away for the evening. In the other preliminary Clarence Morgan received an earned decision over Jimmy Ragan.

TURF GOSSIP

J. K. Hughes' Blanco became blinded by the flying mud while racing behind his field in the third race at the Fair Grounds yesterday and fell against the track fence. The fence rail broke and part of it entered Blanco's chest and killed him. Jockey Cocolo escaped injury.

Jockey Alvin Booker who was suspended for disobedience at the post while riding Colonial Girl in the $50,000 World's Fair handicap, has been reinstated by Starter Dade.

J. W. Schorr's crack 2-year-old, Jack Lory, captured the Albany stakes at Saratoga yesterday, stepping six furlongs in 1:14 2-5 with 120 pounds up. Jack Lory is the best 2-year-old Mr. Schorr has owned in several years.

Topsoil, which was made a pronounced favorite in the third race at the Fair Grounds yesterday, is one of Sam Hildreth's cast-offs. Topsoil may have been a good horse at one time, but he failed to show it yesterday, finishing unplaced.

Vulcain, another "has been," gave the talent a rude shock in the first race at the Fair Grounds Thursday. He was heavily played at a short price and ran well to the head of the stretch, then quit to nothing and landed back in the ruck.

Running races were the feature of the speed program at the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia yesterday. Teany Belle, Jim Ferrin, Honda and Erema were among the winners. The light harness events had to be postponed on account of the heavy track.

Diels Play Jefferson Guards.

The Diels will play the Jefferson Guards baseball team Sunday afternoon at Kulage Park. Goohs and Ryan will be in the points for the Diels, while Weidman and McCowan will perform the battery stunt for the opposing side.

TURF CHAMPIONS MEET SATURDAY

Ort Wells and Beldame Will Measure Strides in Race for Saratoga Cup.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Ort Wells, the champion 3-year-old colt of the year, and Beldame, the best 3-year-old filly on the American turf, are expected to measure strides in the Saratoga Cup at one mile and five-eighths Saturday. This will be the first meeting this year of the pair.

Beldame has beaten all the best fillies of her age in training on the metropolitan tracks, while Ort Wells has trimmed all the best colts of his age, including Delhi, High Ball, Bryn Mawr and Broomstick.

Delhi is also a probable starter in the Saratoga Cup. He is bound to have a great following on the strength of his decisive victories in the Great Republic handicap and Saratoga Derby. This will be Ort Wells' first start since he won the Brighton Beach Derby. While much interest is being manifested in the showing of Ort Wells and Beldame, the prevailing impression among bookmakers is that Caughnawaga, the great son of Clifford, will be made the post favorite for the Saratoga Cup. This horse ran one of the best miles of the season under a big impost only last Wednesday. He has been carefully prepared for the Saratoga Cup and should take a lot of beating in the stake. Caughnawaga is the best son of Clifford in training. He was bred by the Messrs. Sanford, who have Clifford at the head of their select breeding stud.

Africander, another prominent candidate for the Saratoga Cup, ran a splendid race Thursday, going one mile and three-sixteenths in 2:01 flat with 125 pounds up. Major Daingerfield, another candidate for the stake, finished unplaced in the Africander race, and will hardly get anything in the Saratoga Cup.

CANOE RACE ON THE MERAMEC

East St. Louis Jeweler Alleges Customer Seized Timepieces and Ran.

Edward Wilson, who says he is from Chicago, was bound over for the grand jury in the sum of $500 Friday before Judge J. M. Beach of East St. Louis. Wilson was arrested by Patrolman Dee on the complaint of Hugh Briggs of 129 Collinsville avenue.

Briggs says that Wilson entered his store Wednesday and asked to be shown some watches and while his back was turned Wilson seized two of the watches and ran. The police says that Wilson has admitted the theft.

JOCKEY WILLIE DAVIS, WHO GOES TO EASTERN TRACKS.

Jockey Willie Davis.

Willie Davis is a St. Louis boy who has jumped into great prominence as a jockey at the Fair Grounds this season. His riding attracted the attention of C. E. Rowe, and when that horseman decided to ship First Mason, Colonial Girl, Mabel Richardson and the remainder of his stable East for a fall campaign on the Metropolitan tracks, he made an offer for Davis' services. Willie Harris, who has Davis in charge, agreed to give Rowe first call on the lad for the rest of the season.

Davis and his manager will leave for the East tonight. The Rowe horses have been shipped to Sheepshead Bay. Davis will probably commence his Eastern riding career at this meeting.

PARDON AT HAND HE LOST LIFE IN LEAP FOR LIBERTY

expected his release to be ordered Friday, and that there was nothing she could do except to assist him after his release.

The letter was sent away at about the time that Bennett was making the break for liberty, which resulted in his death.

Earlier in the afternoon, Mr. Grace had gone to the workhouse with fruit and cigars for Bennett. He was not able to see Bennett because he had been sent to the quarry, but left the fruit and cigars for him. If he had seen him he would have told him of the prospect of his speedy relief.

Mr. Grace says Bennett was in no condition to work in the quarry, having lost 70 pounds of weight in a short time. He thinks that Bennett's condition of body and mind became such under the hard work in the quarry that he did not care whether he lived or died and determined to take a long chance to get free.

Bennett was 38 years of age and was unmarried. He was formerly a clerk in the money-order division of the Des Moines postoffice, and latterly had engaged in different lines of clerical work, but was wholly unused to labor. He had never been in trouble with the authorities before, and his only failing, his relatives say, was an occasional lapse from sobriety.

When Mr. Grace called on Bennett at the workhouse, soon after learning that he was there, Bennett complained that he had no chance to defend himself in the City Hall police court. He said that the city attorney stated that he had been found in a corridor at the Jefferson and that he owed for his room there. Judge Tracy asked him if it was true that he had not paid his bill at the hotel. Bennett said he started to explain, but the judge cut him off and assessed the fine.

The guards who pursued Bennett were Monty Sullivan, James O'Brien and William Baldwin.

To get to the water, the guards say, he ran down a very steep embankment of 40 feet after he had dodged under a crushed trestle at the south end of the quarry. He was in the water when they came to the top of the embankment and sank while they were trying to get a skiff to go to his assistance.

TRUEBLOOD JURY CAN'T AGREE

Still Wrestling With the Jefferson City Bribery Case.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 19.—After being out 18 hours the jury in the case of Lee Trueblood, charged with bribing Prosecuting Attorney R. P. Stone, had not reached a verdict at noon today and the indications were that it would be unable to agree.

The case went to the jury at 6 o'clock yesterday evening.

Trueblood is being tried on an information charging him with paying the prosecuting attorney $350 to dismiss a criminal prosecution in the justice court.

This case grew out of the attempt made last winter to oust the prosecuting attorney for alleged misconduct in office.

The prosecuting attorney was indicted on the evidence of Trueblood before the grandjury that he gave $350 to have the prosecution dismissed.

Trueblood refused to testify at the trial and the indictment against Stone was dismissed. This information was then filed against Trueblood by F. M. Brown, who was appointed by the Circuit Court for that purpose.

FAMOUS PAINTINGS CRUMBLING

Falling Plaster Defacing Weimar Pictures in Courthouse Dome.

The last stage of the disintegration of the Carl Weimar paintings in the dome of the Courthouse has been entered upon. For a good while they have been peeling off and spasmodic attempts have been made to have them preserved. Friday the plastering on which the pictures depicting historical events were painted began to fall. Throughout the day particles of plastering were falling to the floor of the rotunda. The pictures were painted in 1847.

Fireworks Show Postponed.

The display of Pain's fireworks which was to have taken place Friday night at the Stadium has been postponed until next Tuesday by the management, who say it would be impossible to give the exhibition on account of the rain.

DOGGIE SCALDS TO DEATH IN BATH

Miss Reck, Grief-Stricken Owner, Forgot That the Water Was So Hot.

Miss Amelia Reck, daughter of Anton Reck, an Alton brewer, is the most miserable of the young women of Alton.

She has scalded to death her pretty, woolly little dog.

The little fellow had a fine frolic in the mud, and Thursday morning Miss Reck decided to give him a good scrubbing.

She got a pan of hot water, and, after a chase for little Boswer, who did not like baths, she caught him and plunged him into the pan.

It was not until her own hands were scalded that the young lady remembered that the water had not been cooled.

The dog was fearfully scalded, and the poor little fellow's cries were heart-rending.

Miss Reck did everything she could think of to relieve the little fellow from pain. She telephoned to a veterinary, who told her what to do, but it was of no avail—the dog died.

BIG POLITICAL BATTLE ON IN VERMONT AND MAINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Vermont and Maine have taken the center of the stage for the present in the national campaign and both parties are preparing to send their best orators into those states of early fall elections.

Chairman Taggart for the Democrats announces that Bourke Cockran, Edward M. Shepard, James Lindsay Gordon, Charles S. Hamlin, former assistant secretary of the treasury, and a number of other orators are going to speak in both states.

Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont was at Republican national headquarters to ask for help. He had a long talk with Senator Scott of the speakers bureau. Secretary of War Taft will speak at Montpelier Aug. 26 and Senator C. W. Fairbanks Aug. 29.

Attorney-General Moody and Congressmen Foster and Haskins are to speak throughout the state.

It is no secret that the Republican managers have had a scare about both Vermont and Maine. Reports have been brought in that the Republican majority in Maine may be cut down to 12,000, and there has been talk of a Republican majority in Vermont of less than 2000.

TOM WATSON MAKES HIT WITH CROWD

New Yorkers Thoroughly Enjoy People's Party Notification Proceedings and the Candidates.

BRYAN'S NAME IS CHEERED

Audience Filled Cooper Union and Most of Those Present Made Running Comments.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Before an audience which did not leave a seat in Cooper Union unoccupied and filled about all the standing room there was to spare, Thomas E. Watson was formally notified last evening that he had been nominated as the presidential candiate of the People's party, and Thomas H. Tibbles, one of Mr. Bryan's staunch Nebraska adherents, was likewise informed that he was the same party's candidate for vice-president.

In point of enthusiasm and hearty participation in the spirit of all that was going on, the audience—there were at least 3000 men and women in it—suggested some of the old anti-poverty meetings of the day of Henry George and Dr. McGlynn. It rose up to the oratory with wild cheers. It joined in the proceedings with timely observations. It was good natured from the front tier of seats all the way back through its big compact body to its outer fringe of wall flowers at the rear, where there was standing room only.

Moreover, it took a marked and expansive liking to Tom Watson from the moment it caught sight of him until he made his final bow after a speech that lasted well on to two hours. And during all the time Mr. Watson was talking, as well as during all the time the other speakers had the floor, the audience kept up a running fire of cheerful comment and epigrammatic observation on the subject under discussion. Whenever the speaker ended a sentence with an interrogation point the audience always answered the conundrum like the responses in a political catechism.

The name of Bryan and the names of all the Bryan apostles and prophets were cheered and cheered again, until it seemed as though there would never be an end to the cheering, and the names of Grover Cleveland, John G. Carlisle, August Belmont, David B. Hill and Arthur Pue Gorman were hissed and hooted and groaned at every time the audience got a chance at them.

When it came the turn of J. W. Forrest of Albany to tell Mr. Tibbles about his being the vice-presidential candidate he did it in a tone loud enough to have relieved the nominee of the trouble of a journey all the way from Nebraska to hear it.

BULLETS STOP FLEEING MAN

Special Patrolman Evans Pursued William Caldwell After a Fight in Saloon.

William Caldwell of 1729 Linden street, and William Jackson of East St. Louis, both negroes, are at the City Hospital suffering from severe injuries said to have been received as a result of a fight between the men in a saloon at 1122 Morgan street early this morning. Jackson's wounds consist of a number of stabs, said to have been made with a butcher knife in the hands of Caldwell.

Caldwell was shot by Special Policeman Evans of the Fourth district as he was trying to escape from the scene of the fight. Evans was summoned to the saloon to stop the fight, but upon his approach Caldwell is said to have fled. He was followed several blocks by the patrolman, who fired two shots. One struck Caldwell in the left thigh and the other in the right hip. Both men are in a critical condition.

TAINTED BLOOD

Columbus, Ohio, May 19, 1903.

Some four years ago I was suffering from impure blood and a general run-down condition of the system. I had no appetite, was losing in flesh, and had an all-gone tired feeling that made me feel miserable.

I began the use of S. S. S., and after taking seven or eight bottles my skin was cleared of all eruptions and took on a ruddy, healthy glow that assured me that my blood had been restored to its normal, healthy condition. My appetite was restored, as I could eat anything put before me, and as I regained my appetite I increased in weight, and that "tired feeling" which worried me so much disappeared, and I was once again my old self.

I heartily recommend S. S. S. as the best blood purifier and tonic made, and strongly advise its use to all those in need of such medicine.

VICTOR STUBBINS.

Cor. Barthman and Washington Aves.

S. S. S. is a standard remedy for all blood troubles and a most invigorating tonic when in a debilitated, run-down condition. If there is any taint, humor or poison in the blood, it searches it out and removes it. For diseases due to a polluted or disordered blood nothing acts so promptly and effectually as S. S. S. It is a purely vegetable remedy, containing no mercury, potash, arsenic or other minerals. If you have any symptoms of disordered blood write us about your case and our physicians will advise you without charge. Our book on blood and skin diseases sent free.

Ohio Bluebeard Electrocuted Today at Columbus for His Many Murders

ALFRED KNAPP.

SLAYER OF FIVE WOMEN EXECUTED

Alfred A. Knapp, Who Confessed His Crimes, Dies Without Fear or Emotion.

HAD A LONG PRISON RECORD

Killed Three Women in Cincinnati, One in Indianapolis and One in Hamilton.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19.—Alfred A. Knapp, convicted of the murder of his wife, Hanna Goddard Knapp, and who confessed to five murders, was electrocuted in the annex at the Ohio penitentiary a few minutes after midnight.

Knapp who weakened when he found his last hope for life had gone and expressed a fear that he would have to be carried to the death chair, regained his nerve and met his fate with little show of fear or emotion. The first shock was applied at 12:02, the second a minute later, and at 12:09 he was pronounced dead.

Knapp was born at Greensburg, Ind., in 1862 and for 20 years lived on a farm.

His first criminal act was in Chicago in 1882, where he committed a burglary. He served a sentence at Jaliet for that offense.

First Murder in Cincinnati.

In 1886 he married Jennie Connors at Lawrenceburg, Ind. Between 1886 and 1894 Knapp was confined in the penitentiaries in Jeffersonville and Michigan City and shortly after his release, according to his story, he murdered Emma Littleman in Cincinnati.

Knapp claimed to have killed May Eckert in Cincinnati in 1894.

Later in August of that year the body of Jennie Connors Knapp was found in a canal in Cincinnati, the circumstances pointing to suicide, and a verdict was so rendered. Knapp claimed he killed her on Aug. 7 and threw the body into the canal.

In 1895 Ida Geppert was murdered in Indianapolis and Knapp claims to have killed her. Afterward Knapp returned to Cincinnati and in 1896 married Hannah Goddard, with whom he lived six months.

In 1897 he again appeared in Indianapolis and was sentenced to the Michigan City penitentiary for attacking his cousin, Alice Hill. Two years later he was sentenced to the Columbus penitentiary from Cincinnati for two years upon a similar charge.

Wife Disappears From Hamilton.

In 1892 he was released and returned to his wife, then living in Hamilton, O. On Dec. 22 his wife mysteriously disappeared. Shortly afterward Knapp went to Indianapolis.

Feb. 24, 1904, Mrs. Edward King of Cumminsville, near Cincinnati, notified the Hamilton police that Knapp's wife was missing and that he had married Anna Gamble at Indianapolis. Knapp was arrested there on April 25, 1903. He was returned to Hamilton, where he made a confession in which he admitted killing his wife and said that he put her body in a dry goods box and threw it into the Big Miami river, also telling of the four other murders.

Later the box was found in the Ohio river below Cincinnati and the body identified.

Knapp was speedily tried, found guilty and sentenced to be electrocuted.

Like romance? Here's the really true story of a humble mill-girl who has married her millionaire employer's son, and now they are going to live on Fifth avenue alongside of the Vanderbilts, Astors and the rest of 'em. Pretty girl, too. Her picture and own story in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

NEGRESS ENRICHES TWO WHITE MEN

Cuts Off Kinsmen and Leaves $75,000 Estate to Her Adopted Sons.

ONE OF PROMINENT FAMILY

His Father Said to Be Member of a Prominent and Wealthy Southern Family.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Mary Alexander Almarolla, a negress, who died recently, left a will which cuts off all her negro relatives and bequeaths the whole of her estate, valued at $75,000, to two young white men, Lewis Alexander, 27 years of age, and Joe Alexander, 24 years of age, whom she had adopted in their infancy and reared until they reached the age of maturity.

The woman was educated and became proficient as a linguist. She wrote, spoke and readily understood English, French, German, Italian and Spanish, and was an accomplished musician. She also had an uncommon amount of business sense, administering her husband's affairs with remarkable success and with him accumulating a fortune.

In addition to the will, leaving all her property to the two boys, their fotser mother left four typewritten pages, directing them to open a large trunk after her death and find there certain valuable papers, which would protect their rights and clear up the mystery that invests their lives.

The story of the adoption of these two white children by this woman is not unknown to a few members of the legal profession in Washington, and more than one effort has been made by influential persons to induce one of the foster brothers to claim his paternity and make a legal fight for rights that are said to be his.

He has been assured that if he should do so he will become heir to one of the handsomest fortunes known from the Potomac to the Rio Grande river, and that he would be recognized as the member of a southern family that has shed luster upon American history in statecraft, diplomacy and arms. He has been assured further that his mother was of a family no less distinguished than his father's, and that on the maternal side also a large fortune awaits him in case he chooses to seek his rights in the courts.

The younger of the brothers has never been urged to claim his rights in the courts, it being understood that his parentage would not justify expectation of large wealth.

When you're feelin' grouchy
Let the sunshine in;
When your face gits feelin' hard
Crack it with a grin.
Don't be 'fraid of wrinkles.
Tear loose with your mirth;
An old face laughter-wrinkled
Is the sweetest thing on earth.

Bank Robbers Got a Pistol.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 19.—The postoffice at Lamonte was robbed last night, and a few dollars taken. Every letter in the office was torn open. The bank of Lamonte was also broken open, but a revolver was the only thing taken. The millinery store of Mrs. Jennie Greene was next visited, but nothing is missing. A necktie worn by one of the robbers was found in the rear of the postoffice.

ASKED FOR BEER, JAILED.

Refused Money for Drink, Beggar Attacked Special Officer.

Silas Smith of 1229 Chestnut street asked a special police officer for money to buy beer and got trouble instead.

Special Officer Addison Logan was walking past an alley, between Lucas avenue and Morgan street, when Smith, who is a negro, asked him for money. Logan refused and Smith became impudent. Logan warned him to move on or he would be locked up.

Smith then tried to get Logan by the throat, according to his story, and seemed to be trying to draw a knife. The policeman hit him on the head with his club and sent him to the Fourth district station via the dispensary.

J. P. MORGAN IS A WITNESS.

Search for Lost Fortune Among Big New York Banks.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—In an effort to locate large sums of money supposed to have been on deposit with bankers here to the credit of the late James Miller, counsel representing his daughter and heir, Miss Mary J. Miller of Columbus, O., has secured subpenas for J. P. Morgan and other well known financiers, commanding them to appear in the state supreme court.

The petitioner seeks to examine the books of the banks, because, upon his death, Miller, who was a wealthy coal dealer, much difficulty was experienced in finding his money and securities.

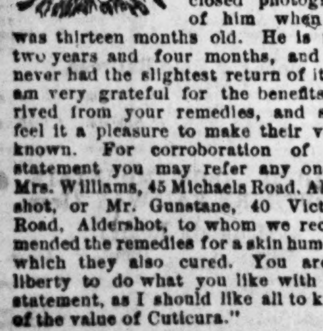

About $100,000 has thus far been found in various banks, and it is supposed large sums are still to be located.

BABY QUIRK'S QUICK CURE

Of Torturing Eczema by Cuticura

When All Else Had Utterly Failed.

"My baby, Owen Herbert Quirk, was afflicted from the age of six weeks with a loathsome running eczema, almost covering his face. I took him to Drs. —— and —— of Victoria Road, Aldershot, and he was treated by them for three months, but got much worse, and was a sickening sight to look at. I saw an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies, and got the Soap, Ointment and Resolvent.

"We noticed an improvement at once, and within a fortnight the running had ceased and the scales were nearly all dried off, and in a month his face was perfectly clear, not a spot left. I have enclosed photograph of him when he was thirteen months old. He is now two years and four months, and has never had the slightest return of it. I am very grateful for the benefits derived from your remedies, and shall feel it a pleasure to make their value known. For corroboration of this statement you may refer any one to Mrs. Williams, 45 Michaels Road, Aldershot, or Mr. Gunstane, 40 Victoria Road, Aldershot, to whom we recommended the remedies for a skin humour, which they also cured. You are at liberty to do what you like with this statement, as I should like all to know of the value of Cuticura."

KIDNAPED BOY SENT HOME BY "BLACK HAND

Father of Antonio Mannino, for Whom $50,000 Ransom Was Demanded, Faints When Son Is Carried Into House.

RELATIVE WHO MET THE BOY ON STREET ARRESTED

Lad Tells Police How He Spent the Ten Days With Bearded Man on Top Floor of Tenement House—Did Not Write Note.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Antonio Mannino, the 8-year-old boy who was kidnaped from his home at 62 Amity street, Brooklyn, 10 days ago, and for whose safe return $50,000 was demanded by the "black hand," was found at Columbia street and Atlantic averue, within five blocks of his home, at 12:15 o'clock this morning by Salvatore Mannino, his father's cousin.

The boy was alone when his father's cousin saw him. Tony told his father and the police that the man who had kept him prisoner put him on the boat at South Ferry, paid his fare and told him to go home.

For some reason not yet explained the police arrested Salvatore Mannino, who found the child, and charged him with abduction. The boy admits that he was alone when his "uncle," as he refers to Salvatore Mannino, found him. The father refuses to countenance the arrest of his relative, and asked his release.

Had No Sight of His Prison.

Young Mannino readily answered all questions put to him and tried to help the police when questioned. He said he did not know in what street the house was in which he had been kept prisoner.

"It was dark when I got to the house first," he said, "and it was dark when I left it tonight."

He said Cucozzo, the boy under arrest, came to him on the day he disappeared and offered to treat him to ice cream. Having known Cucozzo for some time, the lad had no hesitancy in going with him. Together they came to New York, where the boy says they went on a train and had a ride, when Cucozzo took him to the top floor of a big house that looked like a tenement, and was occupied by Italians. They went into a room where there was a man with a little beard on his chin, a woman and a baby boy about a year old.

"They put me to bed and I slept with the man with the beard on his face. They never called each other by any name, I mean the man and the woman. I cried some. I played with the baby.

"The woman would not let me play in the street and kept me in the house. The baby is just a little baby boy and can talk a little. All the time I was in the house, I never left it until tonight. I kept on begging to be sent home.

"While I was there the woman washed my shirt waist and she washed my underclothing and my stockings.

"They gave me enough to eat and did not treat me badly, but I wanted to go home and they would not let me. I cried every time I thought of my poor papa and mamma. Every time I cried I asked to be taken home.

"Must Be a Good Boy and Go Home."

"Tonight the man with the beard came in and he said: 'I will take you to your papa and mamma. You must go home now and be a good boy.'

"Then we left the house, the man and me together. We walked in the street a little ways and went upstairs and took a train and came downtown, and at the station I saw the number 106, I think. I do not know what station it was. It was a long ride. I would not know the house either.

"Then we come to the ferry and the man asked me if I could get home. He gave me the money and I told him yes. I got on the ferry and the man said good-by. Nobody spoke to me on the boat and I was afraid to speak to anyone. I knew where I was as soon as the ferry boat landed. I started straight home, when I met Uncle Salvatore, and he picked me up and was so glad to see me he ran home with me in his arms.

"No, they never talked about money, or that papa had to pay money before I was to be sent home. They talked a lot about my going home, but never said anything about money.

"The woman was very kind to me all the time I was there, except she would not let me go home."

The statement of Antonio that he did not hear talk of money, the police say, indicates that the childish note received by the father was written by the kidnapers in the effort to work on the father's feelings.

BROOKLYN POLICE DO NOT ACCEPT POPULAR THEORY

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The circumstances surrounding the return of Antonio Madaino, the 9-year-old Brooklyn lad, are almost as mysterious as was his disappearance.

According to Salvatore Mannino, a relative, the boy was found alone on the street near his home, but this the police do not believe, and Salvatore Mannino is locked up on a charge of abduction. The police do not believe the so-called "Black Hand" society had anything to do with the boy's disappearance.

The theory advanced by the police is that Mannino was kidnaped by relatives and that the parents and the boy were threatened with death if the boy told all he knew. This is thought to have been the elder Mannino's reason for silencing the lad while he was being questioned, and is also thought to account for the boy's terror and apparent dread of impending danger. It is said the boy's father has not furnished all the facts possible to the police, and has not given all the assistance to find the boy that was possible for him to do.

SHOT WOMAN, KILLED HIMSELF

Chicago Man Was Jealous of Housekeeper—Little Chance for Her Recovery.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Frank Mitchell has shot his housekeeper, Bessie Smith, because he was jealous of her, then turned the revolver on himself and fired a bullet into his left temple. Both were taken to the county hospital, where Mitchell died. Mitchell was 23 years of age. The Smith woman is 19. Her condition is critical.

TWO POUNDS OF GOLD SEIZED

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A nugget of gold weighing nearly two pounds, worth $400, has been found by the police, who arrested David Eber, a jeweler, on the charge of receiving stolen property.

A short time ago a firm of opticians notified the authorities that their inventory of gold, used in manufacturing eyeglass frames, showed a shortage amounting to several thousand dollars. An employe confesses he stole scraps of gold regularly, selling Eber for $19 gold worth $125. These scraps Eber, it is alleged, melted together and formed the nugget, so the police claim, which was seized.

The total amount of gold missing is estimated at $20,000.

MRS. MAYBRICK TO ARRIVE SATURDAY

In the Atmosphere of the Catskills, She Hopes to Lose the Prison Pallor.

TO BE THE GUEST OF FRIENDS

She Will Write Memoirs and Tell Terrible Story She Has Lived in Recent Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—When Mrs. Florence Maybrick reaches New York on the Vaterland Saturday no obstacle to her landing on American soil will be raised by the government.

She will be met by Dr. Emmet Densmore, a millionaire chemical manufacturer of Brooklyn, and his wife, Dr. Helen Densmore, and taken to their summer home on the crest of Bear Cliff, in the Catskills.

"Mrs. Maybrick is the most unhappy womar on earth," said Dr. Helen Densmore today. "She is the most unfortunate woman of history, yet she suffered not in vain, for I firmly believe that the scandal of her outrageous conviction and imprisonment will revolutionize the British system of criminal prosecution."

On a crag 1500 feet above the surrounding valleys, far from the prying eyes of the curious, and where the invigorating air of the mountains will remove the prison pallor from her cheeks, Mrs. Maybrick will recuperate.

And when she has thrown off the crushing weight of 15 years' imprisonment and has recovered her keen faculties, she will write her memoirs and give to the world the story of her unparalleled experience and a defense of her name.

That Mrs. Maybrick should turn to the Densmores in her quest for a haven is not surprising. For more than 13 years they have been her unremitting champions. They have spent thousands of dollars in her defense and when she was unexpectedly released and sought refuge with her mother, the Baroness de Roques, in Rouen, they were the first to seek her out and invite her to shake off the fetters of the old world and come here, where hosts of friends have worked for her deliverance.

Requires a Good Deal of Patching Up.

Much touched by this evidence of affection, Mrs. Maybrick accepted the invitation, and her last letter, under date of Aug. 5, mailed in Rouen, is full of tender appreciation and heartfelt thankfulness to her American friends in general and Drs. Emmet and Helen Densmore in particular.

Some idea of her condition is evidenced by the concluding paragraphs of this letter:

"I must conclude with apologies for this slovenly letter, but my eyes are weak and painful, and I am writing with a bandage over them. In fact, I require a good deal of patching up, so please rub up your medical knowledge.

"With much love to both yourself and Dr. Emmet, and in happy anticipation of seeing you soon, believe me,

"Yours affectionately,

"FLORENCE E. MAYBRICK."

None is better qualified to talk of Mrs. Maybrick's terrible prison experience than Mrs. Densmore, who twice vivited her in her cell and has continuously corresponded with the unhappy woman since she was imprisoned. Mrs. Densmore said today:

"Mrs. Maybrick, like Rachel of old, weeps for her children, and will not be comforted because they are not.'

"Never since the day of her incarceration has she set eyes upon them, for the English prison authorities, with a refinement of cruelty, never permitted them to visit their mother in her prison.

Not Allowed to See Children.

"But once each six months photographs of the boy and girl were taken and sent to the agonized mother, that her eyes might see how they matured and that her breaking heart might be torn with regret and despair. And then, five years ago, when the boy was 15, or thereabouts, she was forbidden to look upon their portraits, those already sent her being taken from her.

"And now that she is liberated she is separated from her children by an impassable gulf. The guardian, a brother of the father, I believe, has determined that they shall never look upon their mother. Her name is never mentioned, and she does not know positively that they are alive, and only dimly guesses that they are in the Isle of Wight.

"I can't say what Mrs. Maybrick will do. She is a woman of great culture and fine attainments. She is a forceful and elegant writer, and it is possible she will rehabilitate her fortunes by means of an autobiographical sketch of her life. What a tale she has to tell! What a scathing arraignment of English prison abuses she can write!

"She is not actuated by motives of revenge. She forgives her enemies. She bears no one malice. But she is filled with gratitude to the host of American men and women who refuse to believe her the murderous creature that English prejudice branded her. Mrs. Maybrick was rich when she was accused of the horrid crime."

Asthma and Hay Fever Cured.

The truly marvelous cures of Asthma, which are being effected by Dr. Schiffmann's Asthma Cure certainly call for notice.

Rev. G. L. Taylor, of Washburn, Ill., says: "Some 7 years ago my wife used several packages of your Asthma Cure which resulted in a permanent cure."

A Hay Fever sufferer writes: "I have been a sufferer from Hay Fever for over 20 years, and it seemed harder every year. The first night I used your Asthma Cure I was greatly relieved. It cured my cough after using a few times. I shall recommend it to all sufferers of Hay Fever." Mrs. Martha Simerson, Laingsburg, Mich.

DRUG CLERK AND PROPRIETOR HELD

Charged With Culpable Negligence in Fatal Sale of Tartar Emetic for Cream of Tartar.

THE CLERK WAS UNLICENSED

Coroner's Jury Confirms Belief of Moritz Helms That Poison Killed His Wife.

The coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Jennie Helms, who died suddenly Sunday night at the Lindell Hotel, returned a verdict Friday, finding that Mrs. Helms died from the effects of tartar emetic poisoning.

The jury recommended that Charles M. Farthing, the clerk who sold the tartar emetic for cream of tartar, be held on a charge of manslaughter.

It also recommended that F. L. Richt, proprietor of the Lindell drug store, where the tartar emetic was purchased, be held for allowing an unlicensed drug clerk to sell drugs.

The full text of the verdict was as follows:

"The jury finds that Mrs. Jennie Helms came to her death Aug. 14, at 10:30 a. m. at the Lindell Hotel from toxic gastritis due to swallowing a teaspoonful of a drug commonly known as tartar emetic. The evidence showed that the husband of the deceased, Moritz Helms, purchased the drug at the Lindell pharmacy for cream of tartar and that the clerk so labeled the package. The chemical analysis of the stomach contents and remaining portions of the powder showed that the drug was not cream of tartar, but tartar emetic, which is a virulent poison when taken in such quantities as taken by the deceased. The evidence also showed that the clerk who sold the drug was an unlicensed druggist, which is contrary to law, and we hold the said clerk, Charles M. Farthing, guilty of culpable negligence, and his employer, F. L. Richt, guilty of the same offense for permitting an unlicensed druggist to dispense drugs in his establishment."

The members of the coroner's jury were W. H. Gray, C. W. Rytnger, H. W. Robinson, M. Hennessy, G. Crone and E. Stillman.

The death of Mrs. Helms occurred in room 19 at the Lindell Hotel Sunday morning. Mrs. Helms had come to St. Louis with her husband from New York to visit the World's Fair. Last Saturday night before retiring she complained of an eruption on her hands and asked her husband to purchase some cream of tartar which she wished to take for medicine. Mr. Helms did as she asked, returning soon afterwards from the Lindell pharmacy with a package labeled cream of tartar. Mrs. Helms put a teaspoonful of the white powder from the package in a glass of water and drank it. Soon afterwards she became violently ill. Physicians were called, but they did not succeed in saving her life. After her death Charles M. Farthing, the drug clerk at the Lindell pharmacy, who sold Mr. Helms the supposed cream of tartar, was arrested. He is still held.

An autopsy resulted in the discovery of traces of powder in the stomach of Mrs. Helms, which a chemical analysis revealed to be tartar emetic.

FOREST FIRES ARE NEARING THE CITY

Schoool House of Canadian Town Is Gone and Fire Threatens Powder Mills.

WELLINGTON, B. C., Aug. 19.—The terminus of the Esquima & Northern railway is in great danger of being wiped out by fires which surround it. Already much property, including the city school house of eight rooms, has gone.

Owing to the dense smoke it is impossible to penetrate to the lower end of town, but it is known that the church, rectory and several large residences are in the greatest danger. Railway employes are fighting the flames—four locomotives hauling water to fell the story, and there was an ample beef supply in many a home to which such a luxury has long been a stranger.

The fate of five remaining cattle is in doubt, as only two have been rounded up and driven back to the yards. Scouting parties representing both the big packing firm and the hungry throng that battled with the police scoured the prairies south and west of the yards all night, and when the latter located its prey the creature was slain and disappeared as though by magic. The herd was valued at upward of $1000.

Recording Secretary Shanahan of the packing house teamsters' union declared today that in his opinion it would be necessary to call out on strike all teamsters connected with delivery to or from retail markets in Chicago. He said he believed this would have to be done to win the strike.

Deaf Mute Leader to Preach.

Rev. Austin W. Mann of Cleveland, O., known throughout the territory between the Mississippi river and the Alleghenies as a founder of missions for deaf mutes, will preach Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at St. Thomas' Deaf Mute Mission in Christ Church Cathedral at Thirteenth and Locust streets. The sermon will be delivered in sign language and a general invitation to attend the services has been extended to all deaf mutes of St. Louis. Mr. Mann formerly lived in St. Louis, but for the past 20 years he has traveled over the central part of the United States organizing missions for deaf mutes. Besides being a master of the sign language, he is also expert in writing upside down. While facing a person to whom he wishes to communicate, he can form the letters of the words he is writing so that they can be read by the second person as fast as written.

SOLDIERS SENT TO FIGHT FLAMES IN WASHINGTON

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—Fires are still raging in the great forests of Washington, doing incalculable damage. The fire in the neighborhood of Fourth Plane, not far from here, is still burning fiercely. Reports from that district show that seven houses have been destroyed together with the mill of the Homestead Lumber Co. and large quantities of cut wood and many valuable trees.

The situation is so serious that a detachment from the Vancouver barracks has been sent to the scene.

INVITED FOLKS TO FUNERAL.

Then Elijah Duke Drank Acid and Went Home.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 19.—After asking a friend if he would attend his funeral and telling him that he had a special invitation, Elijah Duke went to his home and committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. DONNELLY STILL HOPES TO WIN

After Tour of Chicago Yards, He Assures Strikers They Have Nothing to Fear From Nonunion Men.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—President Donnelly and Vice-President Floersh of the Butchers' National organization made a tour of the stock yards today.

"I passed an hour mingling with the throng of nonunion men preparing to enter upon their day's work," he said. "They are a hard crowd, and we have nothing to fear from them as permanent factors at the yards. The majority are negroes, and some of the types I saw suggested a southern convict camp."

President Donnelly announced that labor leaders will be sent tomorrow to Kansas City, St. Paul and St. Joseph to report local conditions to the strikers there. Donnelly himself will go to East St. Louis and then to Indiana, where he will meet President Mitchell of the miners, and expects to receive financial support.

Packing house employes and hungry strikers vied with each other in a steer hunt that extended throughout the night following the riot precipitated by the appearance of 11 runaway beeves from Morris & Co.'s plant in the district west of the stock yards last evening. Today the carcasses of four were accounted for. Little beyond the hoofs and horns remained to

DISINFECTANTS ARE HEALTHY ECONOMY

Many homes are free from disease on account of C-N.

Foremost as a preventative of disease is C-N, the famous household disinfectant. Safe, sure, nonpoisonous, noncorrosive, easy to use and inexpensive, it exactly meets the need of the average home. A small quantity of C-N is put in a large quantity of water and the solution is ready. Use it freely in the drain pipes, sinks and closets, sprinkle it in the cellar, in the corners of the rooms, on the stairs and on the carpets and furniture. It is absolute death to all germs, insects and odors. Brightens and freshens the carpets and upholstery, kills moths, roaches, water bugs, and destroys their eggs. Indispensable in the sickroom.

Make C-N a household habit. At the nearest dealer's in trial sizes.

Distinguished Party of 141, Including Municipal Officers of Pittsburg and Philadelphia, Accompany Him.

Gov. Pennypacker of Pennsylvania and a party of 141 persons will arrive in St. Louis in a special train over the Vandalia this afternoon. Apartments for the entire party have already been reserved at the Jefferson Hotel.

The governor will be accompanied by his wife and daughters. On another train will come the mayor and official other city officials of Philadelphia and Pittsburg and the famous First City cavalry troop of Philadelphia. The organization dates from Revolutionary days and has taken part in every presidential inauguration, generally as the escort of the President. It consists of 60 officers and men, commanded by Capt. J. C. Groome.

HIGH PRICED BARBER SOUGHT

Jefferson Thomas Says He Was Charged $7, But Can't Recall Just Where.

Jefferson Thomas of Winchester, Ind., who has been staying at the Christian Endeavor Hotel, spent several hours Friday trying to find the barber shop on Market street, where he paid $7 for a haircut, shave and shampoo Thursday. He does not remember the name of the place, but believes he will know it if he sees it again.

Thomas went into the shop Thursday afternoon, according to the story he told the police Friday, and asked for a shave. He got it.

After the operation was finished, the barber proposed a haircut, and Thomas again assented.

When the towel was taken off, the barber handed Thomas a check for $7.

Thomas paid the $7.

After he went to his hotel he began thinking it over. He thought about the $7 all night, and early Friday called at the Central District Police Station and told his story.

A patrolman was detailed to help him find the barber.

GEORGIA TRAIN KILLS BEAR.

Engineer Thought It Was a Man and Went Back.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 19.—A black bear weighing 300 pounds was killed by a passenger train on the Georgia Southern & Florida railroad near Bonaire, Ga.

The engineer, in the glare of his electric headlight, saw a dark form rise up from the track just at the end of a trestle over a small creek. He thought it was a man.

The train was brought to a stop and run back to the trestle. A negro porter was sent down into the creek to bring up the body of the supposed man.

The cry of the negro that the supposed man was a dead bear was received with incredulity by the other trainmen. They went down and then found the carcass. It was put aboard the train and taken to Tifton and sold.

Accused of Forging Banker's Name.

As told in late editions of Thursday's Post-Dispatch, a warrant was issued Thursday afternoon for Ben Hastings, who was arrested on suspicion of an attempt to rob the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Co. of diamonds to the value of $2000. The specific charge made against Hastings in the warrant is that he forged the name of Walker Hill, president of the American Exchange Bank, to a note, asking that the diamonds be delivered to a messenger. A "dummy" package was arranged, and detectives followed the messenger, arresting a man, who took the package from the boy. At the time of the arrest the man gave his name as William Hayes, but the police believe his true name is Ben Hastings, and that is the name used [illegible]

JEFFERSON CLUB RATIFIES TICKET

Nearly All Candidates for State Offices Attended, Hearing Hawes' Plea for Harmony.

PLAN FOR SPRINGFIELD RALLY

Simultaneously Good Government Republicans Were Meeting and Condemning Walbridge.

The Jefferson Club ratified the nomination of the state Democratic ticket Thursday night in a meeting at which Joseph W. Folk and his associates on the state ticket, except Messrs. Cowgill and Major, were present.

By prearrangement, no candidate was called on for a speech. This, it was explained, was done in order that the speeches which they will make at Springfield, Sept. 1, when the state campaign will be opened, may be their first public expressions.

Harry B. Hawes, president of the club, made the principal address. He pledged his support to the state and city tickets, and said that no member of the club had the right to advocate the defeat of any Democratic nominee.

"After tonight," said Mr. Hawes, "let there be no use of the words 'Folk men' and 'Hawes men.' We are all Democrats. No true friend of mine will further continue the factional differences or discussions."

The speaker referred to reports that the club was about to disintegrate, and declared that the organization would be preserved. He said that he might resign the presidency when it could be done "without disturbing the harmony which seems now to be established for the coming campaign."

The candidates held a reception after the meeting, and plans for attending the opening exercises at Springfield were discussed. It was announced that the round-trip rate for 200 or more would be $2.

Resolutions of sympathy with Breckenridge Jones and Chief of Detectives William Desmond, who have recently lost their wives by death, were adopted.

While the Jefferson Club was indorsing the Folk ticket, the Walbridge ticket was being condemned at a meeting of the Good Government Republican Club, Chauncey I. Filley's organization, at its rooms, 2300 Augusta street.

Circulars being sent out by the club charge Cyrus P. Walbridge, Republican candidate for governor, with responsibility for fraud in Republican primaries in 1896, when he was seeking the nomination for governor, and rehearse Mr. Walbridge's record on garbage legislation, recently published in full in the Post-Dispatch.

"This was the first organization in St. Louis to ratify the nomination of Roosevelt and Fairbanks," said Mr. Filley in his speech, "but we cannot ratify the nomination for the head of the Republican state ticket.

"When asked for whom I would vote for governor, I answered 'for whomever I please.' I believe this is the attitude of every member of this club," he said.

NEW ELECTION FILING DATE

Commissioners Extend Time Until Sept. 3 on Representation of Folk Forces.

The board of election commissioners voted at its meeting Friday to extend the time for the filing of delegations for the Democratic primaries from Aug. 20 to Sept. 3. The date of the primaries is Oct. 3.

The board's action was taken at the request of several leading members of the Folk forces in the city campaign. The call for the primaries was issued Aug. 5, and the law provides that the last filing day shall be not less than 15 days later. The board has the authority to prolong the period beyond that time, and exercised it in the present case.

MOSQUITO BITE KILLS MAN.

Blood Poison Followed Sting on Indiana Farmer's Hand.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—August Anderson, a farmer of Starke County, Indiana, is dead in a Chicago hospital from the bite of a mosquito. Anderson suffered a slight injury which caused an abrasion of the skin on his right hand.

A mosquito bit him in the abraision and a few days later Anderson began to suffer intensely. He came to Chicago for treatment, but blood poison resulted.

Parade for Livestock Day.

Rosa Bonheur's horse show picture will be duplicated on a scale never before attempted in the history of exhibitions of horses, by the parade of 2000 blooded animals which will be given Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 23, in connection with the opening of the World's Fair livestock exhibit. The horses will come from the United States, Canada, Europe and Arabia, and will represent over twenty distinct types of blooded animals. The parade will move from the livestock forum, in the southwest part of the Exposition tract, and pass in review before World's Fair officials on the main avenue near the southwest corner of the Transportation building.

WORLD'S FAIR SUGGESTIONS.

Letters from readers, in response to the question asked by the Post-Dispatch: "What would you do to add to the success of the World's Fair?" are bringing suggestions worth considering.

Simon L. Boogher calls attention to the fact that some years ago the railway companies operating in this state carried passengers for a short time to and from St. Louis at the flat rate of $1, and he suggests that it would be a good thing to put this rate in force for Missouri week. If the railroads can do this, it would make Missouri week a record-breaker. Missourians would come here in such numbers that the railroads would reap great profits, and the total attendance at the Fair would be vastly increased. Of course these rates should include stop-over privilege for the entire week.

The suggestion of Nathan B. Williams is also touching railroad transportation. He points out that, for visitors who come from a distance of more than 75 miles, a stop-over of seven days is too limited. It takes time to get located. Sunday must be deducted. Also the time taken in coming and returning. He says that 15 days should be allowed on all tickets sold at such distances. This appears to be a valuable suggestion.

And the suggestion to change the hours during which the exhibit buildings are open, so as to include the evening hours, is well worth consideration. Large numbers of St. Louis people who work all day would gladly pay more visits to the Fair, if the main buildings were open in the evening. They do not care to go as often as they might, merely to see the attractions now displayed after dark.

Minister Brooks, whose preaching brought about the alum disclosures in Missouri, has been called to a Colorado church. A great deal of preaching is necessary in Colorado just now.

THE POLITICAL WOMAN.

A Melbourne woman who was recently defeated in her ambition to become a senator, writes an interesting description of the political woman for an English magazine.

It required 20 years to persuade the women of Australia that they wanted the franchise. But when they asked for it and obtained it, they immediately began to take an active interest in public affairs and voted in as great numbers relatively as do the male citizens.

This writer notes that candidates who stand for economy and good administration attract the feminine vote. Women are as a rule independent. They do not vote the straight ticket.

Women in Australia possess all the rights and privileges of citizenship on an equality with men. They are eligible to all offices. A woman may therefore hope to be prime minister.

The lady who writes the article was defeated, but she polled 31,407 votes. Since 85,357 were needed to elect, she thinks she did well, the most powerful newspapers being against her.

Voting means responsibility, says this woman politician; responsibility means power, and power means respect. This is her answer to those who argue that men do not respect the political woman. As a matter of fact, she asserts that woman receive more "chivalrous attention" in Australia than anywhere else, because they have power. There may be something in it. Woman's suffrage is said to have given satisfaction in Colorado and Wyoming.

Is the Kaiser ashamed of the management of his army, that he has ordered that all future military trials shall be secret?

GREAT BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.

The little republic of Panama is lending money in New York.

The adventurers who persuaded President Roosevelt to set them up in business can beat the shrewdest Yankee or keenest Japanese on a business proposition.

They took $6,000,000 of the $10,000,000 obtained for the canal concession and established a loan agency where borrowers can get money on strictly first-class New York real estate, at 4 1-2 per cent.

Customs dues will pay the operating expenses of this unique combination of business and politics. Public works? They don't need them. Or if they do, Uncle Sam will provide them while he is digging the canal. Uncle Sam keeps order for the Panamans, and will probably do pretty much everything else on the isthmus that requires the expenditure of money. The "patriots" will make a good thing out of it. The operating expenses of such a shadowy political entity must be insignificant. How grateful the eminent seniors and doctors and generals ought to be to the President of the United States. Before they called he answered; before their government was, he saw it and recognized it right hard. And now they have the ... of patriotism. It w... of business.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

THE TRANSIT LOOP AT THE LINDELL ENTRANCE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"Old Resident" is correct about that loop at the main entrance. That whole arrangement should be abolished. I want to endorse his protest and add to it that the people who use those cars are being wronged. Nobody has to buy a ticket before they get on board a car. A nickel is as good as a ticket. The Transit Co. protects itself by inconveniencing the people and placing them in danger when they get mixed up in the enclosure. I am a stranger here and it cost me 35 cents to learn that a ticket you buy one day is no good the next. But you can't find that out before you buy the tickets. JAMES ROBERTS.

INDECENT SOUVENIRS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am glad to see that at last some action has been taken to stop the sale of the vulgar and indecent "souvenirs" (so-called) on the streets and in certain stores. It certainly is about time, as some of the more respectable (?) stores, emboldened by the profusion of such vile merchandise, and thinking only of profit, are exhibiting pictures and articles equally as indecent.

Now, if the clergy and the boards of foreign missions will take a little interest in trying to keep our home youth from becoming worse than the heathens they are so worried about, they will support the civic improvement league and other laymen in this move and also try and have the indecent slot picture machines banished. Our license commissioner should be asked if he considers such things good for our youth to see every way they turn on the streets and steps should be taken to bring the manufacturers of these vile goods to account. In my opinion the men who get up these corrupting things are worse than the vilest criminals, who do not try to corrupt others for profit.

Why do not the clergy and all good men unite to stop such a glaring evil? CELTIC-AMERICAN.

COURTESY IN ST. LOUIS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

After reading "A Stranger's Farewell" in today's Post-Dispatch Letters from the People I take this chance to properly thank two unknown gentlemen who kindly assisted me on trying occasions.

I got on a Delmar car one evening at 5:30 o'clock after a hard day's work at the Fair. Seeing no room inside, I stood on the front platform with another young lady. The motorman saw that I was ill and weak. (His mother evidently was a lady and one of nature's noblewomen.) With a short word he banished a cigarette fiend, then with the true grace and courtesy of a gentleman, he turned to me and placed his stool at my disposal, continuing himself to stand. I say, God bless the man who has the tact and kindness to give his strength for the weak and helpless.

A long illness ensued and when able to be out once more I essayed to take a party of Fair visitors out sightseeing. My sickness had made me unfamiliar with the changes in all car lines and my ignorance and hesitation were noticed by a gentleman at Broadway and Olive street. Ascertaining our destination, he went away and speedily returned with full directions needful which he very courteously gave me. He has placed me greatly in his debt and I take this chance to thank him for his disinterested kindness. VIOLET WOOD.

A CANDID CONFESSION.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I feel as though my advice may be of some value to the young lady asking at what age should a man marry.

I am now just past my teens. When 17 I was asked to marry several times by a young professional man whom I had known for a number of years and who had kept my steady company for a year or more.

I was a jolly girl and had lots of boy friends with whom I went out occasionally, and when my sweetheart heard of such he did not hesitate to make it known, and said he objected to it very much. So at one time I told him it wouldn't happen any more; but as twice a week out with him to the theater or some other pleasure wasn't quite sufficient. I soon broke my promise, as some of the other gentlemen asked me to go to a dance, which I did.

Well, shortly after this my sweetheart asked me to be his only and to marry him. I consented to it, but not for a year or more, for at the time I was enjoying the best of my happy days, and didn't want any string tied to me as yet.

He waited patiently for me to change, as he said he loved only me, and at the time I'm satisfied he did. I told him the same and I meant it with all my heart, but he had his doubts and I don't blame him.

If it had been vice versa and I had caught him going out with other girls I would think the same as he did.

It pains me to say that through my devotion to pleasure I have lost my future happiness, just because I thought he was a little young and I five years his junior; and I did not think he could give me up.

Today he is married and lives very comfortably. The girl he married is a very good friend of mine, and this makes my sorrow worse. I have tried to forget but that is a very hard thing to do, especially when you see the party every day.

I advise every girl who reads this and is inclined a little as I was to wake up and not miss the golden opportunity.

BROKEN HEARTED.

LUNA.—When the apparent diameters of the sun or moon are measured, they are found to be less near the horizon than the zenith. It is an error of judgment that they seem larger. Diminished brightness and the proximity of terrestrial bodies may cause sun or moon to seem farther away when near the horizon, and this would make us think they must be larger, if they really had the same size. A mountain seems more distant in a hazy atmosphere than in a clear one. It is some such cause as this which causes the mental error, and there is probably some mental action involved that nobody understands.

Among the provisions of this substitute was one making the certificates issued on bullion purchased legal tender for private debts; another for free coinage upon the ratio of 16 to 1, where silver had risen in price to make 371.25 grains of pure silver worth 23.22 grains of pure gold; and another for the discontinuance of the compulsory coinage of silver dollars. In 1891 he said: "I am in favor of the double standard, but I am not in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver in the United States until the nations of the world shall join in guaranteeing to silver the status which their laws now accord to gold."

NEW YORK WORLD'S EDITORIALS TODAY

INDEPENDENT JOURNALISM.

The Springfield (Mass.) Union has a strange conception of independent journalism. It observes that:

"Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World, is also the happy owner of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. We say happy, because the St. Louis newspaper, like The World, is first-class in every respect and a great money maker. Mr. Pulitzer's World, in quoting from Mr. Pulitzer's Post-Dispatch, calls the latter 'Independent,' and we wonder what is meant. It is true that Mr. Pulitzer could not go Bryan and he has on occasions bolted Tammany, but we fail to recollect a single newspaper in the country that is more solid in support of 'Democratic principles' than the World or the Post-Dispatch."

What sort of "Independence" would that be which is independent of principle? Would any word better describe that attitude of mind than unprincipled? In the World's view of conviction and of duty it is always principle that dictates independence of thought and action. It is policy that dictates the servile attitude of the organic press.

Under its present management, the World was dedicated and has been devoted to "Truly Democratic Ideas." But it has always reserved to itself the right of judgment as to what are and are not truly Democratic ideas and principles. It never has surrendered and will never surrender to any convention or candidate the custody of its conscience. And while proud of its independence, the World accepts as a high compliment the testimony of its contemporary in Springfield that it does not know "A single newspaper in the country that is more solid in support of Democratic principles than the World or the Post-Dispatch."

This fidelity, the World proposes to maintain. But at the very beginning of a campaign in which it is earnestly supporting the Democratic candidate for President it has not hesitated to announce that "The World is not an organ; it does not defend any candidate for the sake of party nor attack any other candidate because of his party. It will fight for what seems to it to be right."

It was this spirit of independence, this sense of duty to the people which led the World to reject the Chicago platform and candidate in 1896; to support President Cleveland when he was right and condemn him when he was wrong; to warn the St. Louis convention that it would give Roosevelt "a walkover" if it failed to make the party's position clear as to free silver; to urge Judge Parker to insist upon a correction of the fatal blunder, and to declare that while it will support the Democratic candidate "it will not lie for him."

It is the same spirit, and not any purpose to be captious, which caused the World to call upon Judge Parker for a clearer expression of his views as to the future of the Philippines, and sharply to call upon the Democratic committees to "wake up."

Of the latter, the Union, in quoting it, says: "This is certainly a roast on the managers, but most of us would call it an indication of Democratic earnestness rather than the criticism of an independent."

Is our contemporary unable to perceive that "the criticism of an independent" is often the most legitimate and effective "indication of Democratic earnestness" for principle?

To be independent, is not in the World's view, to be a free lance in journalism—believing in the principles of neither party and attacking both without discrimination, simply to make a point or a sensation. An independent newspaper is rather one with settled convictions as to what is right and what is wrong—what is wise and what is foolish—in human society and in government, and with freedom and courage to express and defend its opinions, recognizing no authority save conscience, no obligation except to the people who trust it. Such independence the World has tried to maintain and will continue to practice.

THE APOTHEOSIS OF ROOSEVELT.

A new and interesting suggestion relative to Mr. Roosevelt's place in history is thrown out by Israel Zangwill, the distinguished English author, in the course of an article printed in the August issue of the Reader.

Mr. Zangwill says: "Already Roosevelt has a following of adorers in every country greater than any man has commanded since Napoleon, while his more impersonal ambition and his unfaltering devotion to ideals of righteousness and justice have put him on a far higher plane than the arch-warrior. Who can say that posterity is not destined to witness his apotheosis?"

Why should all the benefits of the apotheosis of Mr. Roosevelt be reserved for posterity? What has posterity done that it should monopolize this greatest good? The generations that are have rights no less sacred than those of the generations that will be.

If the apotheosis of Mr. Roosevelt is to be, let us have it now, when it can be done by executive order and given immediate effect.

Missouri Without an Equal.

Frank Spearman in Saturday Evening Post.

The rediscovery of Missouri. It seems more curious still that so old a state as Missouri should be fertile ground for an immigration bureau. Though Missouri was admitted to the union years before Iowa it has fewer schoolhouses and fewer school teachers than the younger state, and there are still whole counties in Missouri without a railroad.

Yet Missouri, in profusion of natural riches, it without a parallel in the United States. The operating officer of one of the greatest railroad systems in this country, a man of wide executive experience, riding down the beautiful Mohawk Valley one evening in his car, declared that if obliged to choose from all the union a single state, and build a wall around it that he was never again to pass, he should choose Missouri; and the adage is one to wh... all Missourians are loyal.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO TO ADD TO THE SUCCESS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR?

It is conceded that the World's Fair is superb. The management has done and is doing splendid work. But, in the multitude of counselors there is sometimes wisdom, and the Post-Dispatch asks its readers the question, What Would You Do, If You Had Supreme Power, to Add to the Fair's Success? Limit your suggestions to two, in each letter, and do not exceed 250 words.

Improve the Street Car Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

An effort should be made to have the Laclede line of cars run through from Broadway to the state buildings entrance, as they are marked to run. The practice of two "through" cars consolidating their two ordinary loads into one big, crushing load, anywhere on the line, going either way, is very disgusting, especially to visitors with hand satchels and other small baggage. I would try to show the company that the 20 cents they save by that empty car switching back is often lost to them a hundred-fold in some other direction. A demand should be made that every other Delmar car should not turn into the shed when hundreds of persons are wearily waiting at the loop to go home.

PASSENGER.

Free Tickets for the Poor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Send each rabbi, priest and gospel worker free tickets to give their worthy poor Saturday p. m. All adults could enter for 25 cents each, children free. This would give breadwinners each a chance to see the mightiest Fair this earth has ever seen or will see, unless D. R. is again president of fairs to come. All blessings on the Fair. I find all so convenient there, had I money I'd go each day and take a new bunch of children each time. The guards, natives, porters, each and all are so nice. St. Louis will be bettered in every way by having held the Fair.

What the Railroads Could Do.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Procure immediately a meeting of the passenger agents of the roads leading into St. Louis, and get as many as possible of the general passenger agents of other roads which connect with the lines entering St. Louis present at such meeting.

To these men I should insist that full 15 days should be allowed on all tickets to St. Louis, which are sold at a distance of more than 75 miles from St. Louis and that even this limit would be extended upon the payment of a small percentage of total fare.

My reasons are that under the present ticket arrangements the railroads get too large a proportion of the amount spent by the visitor.

The majority who will attend the Fair are within 600 miles of St. Louis. A heavy proportion of these are farmers and wage earners. They feel like a week, seven days, is a long time to be away from home. They know it costs money to see the Fair. They start out to economize by buying the cheapest ticket, the one with seven-day return limit. It takes them a day to get to St. Louis. Sunday comes out of every week, every one wants a day downtown, it requires a half day to get located, there is remaining three and one-half days in which to see the Fair. Such visitors pay no more than four admissions to the Fair, when, if his time was longer, say 15 days, he would stay if he had to write home for money and pay the Fair no less than 10 or 12 admissions. The days of the week get lost while one sees the Fair.

He would go home well pleased, advising his friends and neighbors to do as he did. On the short trip he comes back disgusted, feeling that he paid too much for what he got. I have seen him by the hundreds. I stayed two weeks at the Fair.

NATHAN B. WILLIAMS.

Encourage the Aeronauts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

How to add to the success of the World's Fair.

If there is any man that can build a bonafide flying machine, and is short on finances, the transportation companies and the Fair ought to see to it that the money is supplied, as the flying machine must come from the poor but practical mechanic. Practical flying machine would do more for the Fair than any other attraction.

Cheap Admission After 6 P. M.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If it is at all possible, I am in favor of having the Fair opened on Sunday, at least the exhibit buildings, if not the Pike, as I think this would surely swell the attendance, and it could not help being a success.

I think it would also be of benefit to the Exposition if the admission fee were reduced to 25 cents after 6 o'clock p. m.

W. A. R.,
Ex-Senator.

Let the People Know the Cost.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There is prevalent among the people of this country, especially in the smaller towns and rural districts, a general impression that a person of moderate means cannot visit the Fair on account of excessive cost of living in St. Louis. The people should be relieved of this idea and to accomplish this it is necessary to advertise extensively, especially in the newspapers in county seats and small towns, giving in detail as near as possible the actual cost of living in St. Louis for a person of moderate means and when they come to visit out great Fair, if they find they can do so at a nominal expense, they will return to their homes and say to their friends and neighbors: "We have visited the great World's Fair at St. Louis, the greatest achievement of its kind, and at a very moderate expense, too. This will bring good results and increase the attendance very handsomely.

Respectfully, J. C. BROWN.

Cheaper Transportation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Let there be more reasonable excursion rates on all lines to St. Louis. Let the people within the radius of 200 miles receive the benefit of the 1-cent-per-mile rates, as well as those beyond that radius. With some inducement—cheaper transportation—they will swell the list of the great World's Fair. A VISITOR.

Tomorrow.

If th' past hain't good t' look at an 'th' present doesn't suit,
There's Tomorrow;
If yer plans ain't workin' proper an' yer sorter sore, t' boot;
There's Tomorrow.
If some grumbler's been an' told you things is gone t' tarnal smash,
That we're all of us plum' certain t' be ruined in th' crash,
Trim yer lamp o' hope a little—let 'r give a feeble flash
On Tomorrow.

They ain't been no past could ever hol' a candle to th' good
In Tomorrow;
Future's bound t' serve ye better'n you had ever thought it could—
Ah, Tomorrow!
All th' past was ever meant fer, with its trials an' its cares,
With its everlastin' pitfalls an' its never endin' snares,
Was to fix you so yer luck would sort o' take ye unawares
'Some Tomorrow.

If they's one thing more'n another makes this life worth while t' me,
It's Tomorrow.
If they's one thing more'n another that I'm fairly wild t' see,
It's Tomorrow.
What can Yesterday—Today be to a feller full o' hope?
Feller gits t' thinkin' backward w'y he's purty sure t' mope;
Fill yer pipe up to th' muzzle with that finest kid o' dope—
Called Tomorrow!

THE CLUBWOMAN'S VIEWS

By THE SOCIETY GIRL

"DID you see," asked the Society Girl, "that Miss Niedringhaus of St. Louis shot a bear? She's to be married soon, you know."

"Well," said the Club Woman, "the girls of today certainly are strenuous. They didn't train for it that way in my time. But have you seen in the papers what awful stories are being told about the World's Fair away from the city? They seem to believe that robberies, exorbitant hotel prices, $8 for a simple meal, and such things are to be expected here, and in some places they insist that the Fair is not ready yet. The Post-Dispatch last Sunday told of the many extraordinary falsehoods believed in the West. Of course, we in St. Louis know that these stories are not true; that they are based on very infrequent exceptions.

"It is true, there are some annoyances, but they are only incidents. For instance, Mr. Brown and I had been at the Fair all the afternoon and stayed for the illumination. Well, we were tired, of course, and the steps of the Louisiana Purchase monument loked inviting, so we sat down. But a guard made us get up. We weren't doing any possible harm, but the guard said he had 'orders.' Then Mr. Brown got one of his sarcastic fits. Pointing to the female figure that represents Louisiana, he said to the guard:

"'I don't see why you should object if the lady doesn't. It is her pedestal, isn't it?'

"'Oh, if you look at it that way,' said the guard, 'do you think it polite to sit down while the lady is standing?'

"Then we went away. As we were walking across the Plaza I said to Mr. Brown: Well, how do you feel now? Like 30 cents?

"'Worse than that,' he replied. 'Like a man in the Tyrolean Alps with only a $2 bill.'

"Speaking of the Tyrolean Alps reminded Mr. Brown that not only Westerners believed queer stories about the Fair. He said New York people were just as bad. You know, that funny nickname—the 'Petroleum' Alps—has gone everywhere."

"Well?" queried the Society Girl.

"Well, he said he heard that the Standard Oil Company heard of it and sent a man out to look them over."

"But why," asked the Society Girl, "did shooting a bear remind you of the Fair?"

"If one should miss the bear," said the Club Woman, "one surely would regret it."

TERRIBLE MASSACRE AT CHICAGO.

Indians Instigated by British Bounties.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15, 1803.

Again has the inhumanity of the British so worked upon the cupidity of the Indians that our peaceful community has been the scene of one of those massacres so greatly dreaded by our people ever since the settlement of this great country was first attempted. Not content to meet us in open battle, their agents have been busy among the Indians, paying them heavy bribes to retain their friendship, and, worse than all, offering them so many dollars apiece for the scalp of the Americans, men, women and children; which bounty changes the savage into a predatory assassin and causes the tribes to break their treaties without scruple.

Since the battle of Tippecanoe last fall, about which I wrote you, it has been observed that the leading chiefs around us have been very sullen and we have feared an outbreak; and the killing and scalping at Lee's place, a few miles above here, in April this year by some Winnebagoes have increased the sense of constant danger in which we live, but never once have we expected so fearful a massacre as that which occurred today.

After the affair at Lee's all of our people moved into the Agency House, near Fort Dearborn, and fortified themselves. For some time hostile Indians hovered around, but for the past month we have had no cause for fear.

Last week Catfish, a friendly Pattawatomie chief, arrived with a message from Gen. Hull to Capt. Heald, commandant of the fort, announcing his arrival at Detroit with an army, the declaration of war with Great Britain, the invasion of Canada, and the loss of Mackinack. It also conveyed an order to Capt. Heald to evacuate the fort if practicable, and to distribute the government property in the fort and agency among the Indians in the neighborhood.

The officers and friendly Indians urged Capt. Heald not to leave the fort, as it would be dangerous to do so, the hostile Indians having received information from Tecumtha of the disaster to the American arms in Canada, and were daily becoming more restless and insolent; but Capt. Heald resolved to carry out the instructions of his superior officer. He called a council of the Indians and told them of his intention to leave the fort and give them the stores. They received his offer with many protestations of friendship, and it was agreed that the distribution of goods, arms and provisions should take place day before yesterday. A guard of 500 Pattawatomies offered to escort us through the wilderness to Fort Wayne.

We began the distribution of the stores as agreed, the Indians having come in great numbers to receive them, but during the day Black Partridge, a friendly chief, warned us to be very careful on the march to Fort Wayne, and the distribution was stopped for that day. After consultation it was decided not to give the guns and ammunition to the Indians, so that night the muskets not needed by the garrison were broken up and, with powder, shot, flints and everything pertaining to firearms, were thrown into a well near the sally port. A large quantity of liquor and some powder were thrown into the Illinois river, and by morning the destruction was complete, but the savages had crept close to the fort and had seen us destroy that which they had begun to consider their own.

All day yesterday complaints and threatenings were loud because of this breach of faith, and we were impressed with an awful sense of impending doom.

When this morning arrived the savages were in such overwhelming numbers that we felt sure they intended to murder us. At 9 o'clock the gate was thrown open and our little band marched out. It was like a funeral procession, the band playing the "Dead March in Saul," some friendly Miamis in front, and followed by our escort of about 500 Pottawatomies. We moved slowly along the lake shore until we came to the sand hills between the prairie and the beach, when our escort of Pottawatomies filed to the right and placed the sand hills between us and themselves.

We were scarcely aware of our danger when a storm of bullets came upon us. Our troops were quickly formed into line and charged up the sand bank, forcing the Indians back, and the battle was then waged on the open prairie, 54 soldiers, 12 civilians and three or four women against 500 Indian warriors. Of course, the conflict was hopeless on our part, but we determined to make them pay dearly for every life which they took. The cowardly Miamis fled at the first onset, leaving us to fight against terrible odds.

The conflict was short, desperate and bloody. Two-thirds of our people were slain or wounded, and all the horses, provisions and baggage were lost. We succeeded in breaking through their ranks and gaining a slight eminence on the prairie near a grove, but only 28 of us were able to fight. The savages did not pursue us, but gave signs of a desire to parley, and seeing the uselessness of further resistance, we surrendered as prisoners of war and were taken to the Indian encampment near the fort.

In this conflict the women bore conspicuous parts, fighting gallantly as long as their strength permitted. In a large wagon 12 white children were tomahawked by one Indian, and all the wounded were scalped in order to secure the bounty so liberally offered by Col. Henry Procter, the agent of the British government.

FILIPINO STUDENTS AT FAIR.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Referring to a letter signed "Westerner," in last Saturday's Post-Dispatch, the writer must certainly be a westerner in name only. He seems devoid of that broadmindedness and tolerance which to my mind are best typified by the true westerner. His first sentence reads: "A few days ago, a train bearing several hundred Filipino boys was sent across the country from San Francisco to the St. Louis Fair at government expense."

In the first place, there was one, not "several," hundred; in the second place, they did not come from San Francisco, and finally, they are not at government expense, if "Westerner" means United States government expense, as he evidently does, or it were no concern of his. Continuing, he says: "The students traveled in Pullmans and ate at the best hotels." They did neither; they traveled second class in tourist sleepers and at at railroad eating houses, or missed their meals entirely. These "heathens" had forefathers who were Christians before "Westerner's" came over from—I don't know where. Mr. Roosevelt nor anyone else has sent these students around sightseeing. By economizing their yearly allowance and by working in the different exhibit buildings at the Philippine expositon, they are enabled to stay at the Fair while awaiting the opening of their schools in September. They are here on duty in the various buildings of their own government's exhibition. They would be very foolish not to take advantage, during their leisure, of the educational opportunities offered by this greatest of world's fairs.

That the people of this section furnished a good share of the soldiers for their country's war in the Philippines and elsewhere, is to their credit, yet it can scarcely be said that the people of the Philippines invited the American army to cross the ocean to fight them. If I recall the facts, it was not the Philippines who took the initiative. But that concerns us not now. What does concern us is whether a hundred young men sent by their own government to this country for education and Americanization are to be treated with tolerance or as "Westerner" would have us, as enemies. The whole point of his baseless tirade seems blunted by the fact that the education in the United States of this hundred young Filipinos and the hundreds to follow, costs the United States government not one penny, but their support is exclusively from the Philippine government, from revenues derived through levying duties on goods imported into the islands and consumed by the Filipinos, and from taxation of property and enterprises in the Philippines.

I have thought since its inception that the Filipino students' movement would prove of as great an educative value to the Americans with whom the students should come in contact as it would to the students themselves. This has proved to be exactly the case in southern California, where these students have been boarding in private American families and attending the public American schools, during the past school year. But if they had to come into contact solely with people of the caliber and narrow-mindedness of Westerner, I should say their task in this respect were a hopeless one. Ye cannot gather figs of thistles.

We should be pleased to have all of that great horde of deflected voters which Westerner threatens the Republican party with, as well as all others who wish to be set right on the true Philippine situation, to visit the students at the Philippine exposition at the World's Fair at any time before the middle of September, and the "little yellow scamps" will be only too glad to do what gentlemen can to overcome an unwarranted prejudice and an unreasonable antagonism.

WM. ALEX SUTHERLAND,
Superintendent of Filipino Students in the United States.

ROOSEVELT GIVES IN TO LABOR UNION

President Surrenders to the International Association of Machinists After Long Controversy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Roosevelt has completely surrendered to the International Association of Machinists, which has been pushing a demand that the employes at the Washington navy yard be given a half holiday, with pay, on Saturday afternoons during the summer, as are the government clerks. In giving his decision by which the demand is granted, R. J. Tracewell, comptroller of the treasury, directly reversed himself and ignored precedents bearing on the case.

Mr. Tracewell is the court of last resort in all such matters and is the one high government official who is popularly supposed to be absolutely free from political influence of any kind even though it be from the White House. In this instance it is freely charged that Mr. Tracewell yielded to a mandate from the President that some way must be found of complying with the demand of the machinists. His decision was announced just after he left a conference at the White House to which he was accompanied by several labor leaders.

After the party left Secretary Loeb said that he had gone over the law with the comptroller and found it to be quite plain. Mr. Tracewell, he said, agreed with him in his interpretation of it. Mr. Loeb has never made any pretense of being a lawyer.

The view of the disbursing officer was that the employes of the navy yard were paid by the day and were under entirely different rules from the regular employes of the government.

The ruling of the disbursing officer in the navy yard was appealed to Mr. Tracewell several weeks ago. Mr. Tracewell went to the White House twice within the last few days, once in company with Secretary Shaw to confer with the President on the subject. The conference violated all precedents and aroused much comment.

Drowned Child's Body Found.

The body of 4-year-old Mendel Tchofsky of 914 North Ninth street, who fell from a wagon driven by a negro upon the dumpboat at the foot of Mullanphy street several days ago, has been recovered by the police and claimed by the boy's father, Harry Tchofsky. The police are still hunting for the negro driver of the wagon. The body of the boy was recovered by Capt. Thomas Cooney of the harbor boat Mark Twain, who saw it floating at the foot of Lucas avenue Thursday afternoon.

A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily, and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—MRS. REGAN AND NEIL MAY FIGHT HERE

Manager of the Former Wants to Pull Off the Championship Battle in St. Louis.

Jack McKenna, the manager of Johnny Regan for his fight with Frankie Neil, wants to hold the championship battle in St. Louis. According to McKenna, the two little fellows can draw a bigger house here than any place in the country, with the possible exception of Frisco.

"We have received an offer of $2500 from a Philadelphia club for this fighth, but I am not going to sacrifice any fighter in a championship fight that amounts to money. Regan and Attell drew $4900 in their first fight here and these two boys I am sure would draw a few thousand dollars more.

"St. Louis is a good town for good fights, but it will not stand for poor ones, and I think we can fill the West End Club to the guards with a fight that has the class that this one will have. Neil in himself is a big drawing card and so is Regan. It will be a great fight and I would like to see it held in St. Louis."

AMBULANCE WAS ELOPER'S CARRIAGE

Locked in Her Room to Prevent Marriage, Girl Pretends to Swallow Acid.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

UNION HILL, N. J., Aug. 16.—Writhing, and presumably dying from the effects of carbolic acid, Mary Kromberg was taken in an ambulance from the house, in North Bergen, of her grief-stricken mother, and hurried at mad gallop straight to the office of a justice of the peace, where she alighted smiling and happy, and at once was married to Julius Braun.

It was a unique way of outwitting her parents, who opposed bitterly to the match, had locked the girl in her room. Mr. and Mrs. Braun started immediately on their wedding tour, without taking the trouble to notify Mr. and Mrs. Kronberg where they were going.

The home of the Kronbergs is at No. 43 Main street. The home of Julius Braun is near by. Several months ago the young man and woman fell in love. Mr. and Mrs. Kronberg objected strongly to the attachment and threw every obstacle in the way of the young people meeting.

But meet they would, as sweethearts will. A few days ago Mary told her parents that she was going to marry Julius Braun on Saturday and a stormy scene followed. Parents and girl were immovable, and the first thing today when the subject of contention was broached Mary was taken to her room and locked in, as her parents had said they would do.

But the threat had served simply as a bit of valuable information to the waiting, who at once had laid plans how they should cope with the difficult situation. The scheme they had evolved certainly was novel.

Mary had not been in her room long after breakfast this morning when her mother head her scream and then fall heavily. White faced, Mrs. Kronberg unlocked the door, and on the sofa lay her daughter writhing as if in death agony. An empty carbolic acid bottle on the floor told the story. Shrieking that her Mary had killed herself Mrs. Kronberg ran to the street to alarm the neighbors.

As if by magic an ambulance dashed up, the horses on a dead gallop. The distracted mother was too preoccupied with her grief to wonder at the appearance of the ambulance so quickly. The driver, with the aid of a man who sprang into sight as soon as the vehicle stopped, ran upstairs to Mary's room and hurried her to the ambulance, which was driven off at a hot pace in the direction of the hospital.

At Bergenline avenue and Lewis street the ambulance turned off and made straight for the office of Frank Stuke, justice of the peace, at Lewis street and New York avenue, Union Hill.

Here Mary leaped from the ambulance into the arms of her waiting and impatient sweetheart. With the driver and his volunteer assistant they entered the office, where Justice Stuke was ready to marry them. The two men from the ambulance acted as witnesses and both were well paid for their part in the successful elopement.

SLATED FOR MILITARY RULER OF MANCHURIA

Gen. Fukushima Speaks English, German, French, Russian and Chinese Fluently and Is Composer of a Famous War Song.

BY COL. EDWIN EMERSON, JR.,
War Correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1904, by the Press Publishing Co.)
Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

TOKIO, Japan, July 22.—Major-General Fukushima of the Japanese general staff, who has just left Tokio with Field Marshal Oyama and Gen. Kodama, is one of the ablest, best equipped men at the head of military affairs in Japan.

We may expect to hear of him as the administrator of the Manchurian territory occupied by the Japanese, a task which gives promise of assuming constantly increasing proportions.

Unlike the other prominent men in the army and navy, he does not hail from the provinces of Satsuma or Choshu, and he seems to have made his way without that apparently indispensable preliminary qualification. Nor does he owe his preferment to wealth.

He was born in 1853, at Matsumoto, in Shinano Province, his family being very poor Samurai; and he began life for himself as a drummer boy in a regiment of his prince's clan, having learned to drum in a modernized military school established by the Shogun.

To qualify himself for a post in the newly organized judicial department of the re-established central government of the Emperor, young Fukushima studied modern languages assiduously. But he was employed only one year in that department, 1874. The next year he was transferred to the general staff office. While a clerk there he added a special proficiency in geography to his other attainments.

Came to the 1876 Exposition.

In 1876, Fukushima, who still had no grade in the army, went abroad for the first time to visit the Philadelphia Exposition.

The next year, after the Satsuma rebellion was put down, his services in the staff office were recognized to the extent of enrolling him in the army as a lieutenant. Since then his rise has been steady.

At the time of the Corean complications in 1882, he was ordered to the scene, and on his return was appointed attache at Pekin. He turned the two years he spent there to account, writing two books: "The Military System of China," and "Szu Shen Sien Chu," a work on the Chinese language, which remains an authority.

In 1885 he revisited China in the suite of Marquis Ito.

Fukushima's "Notes on India," are the result of a mission that took him there in 1886.

In 1887 he was appointed attache at the legation at Berlin and held this post, to his own great pleasure and profit, till 1891, when he started for home on horseback, proposing to make his way through Russia and Siberia without the aid of any other means of conveyance.

Speaks English, French, German, Russian and Chinese.

The Trans-Siberian Railway was then in course of construction; and it may be imagined to what purpose Major Fukushima used his extraordinary powers of observation, and with what feelings he now revisits the scenes of his feat. Its successful accomplishment made his name known throughout Japan and the Emperor was pleased to promote him to the rank of a colonel before he reached home.

Since then he has been successively staff officer to the Second Army, chief of the Administrative Bureau of the territory occupied by Japan during the war with China and Chief of Staff of the Japanese contingent during the Boxer troubles in 1901. On the occasion of King Edward's coronation, Col. Fukushima went to England in the suite of Gen. Oku.

Gen. Fukushima speaks English, French, German, Russian and Chinese with equal facility. On account of these attainments, it has been his onerous duty to deal with the military attaches and war correspondents who flocked to Japan to see the war. Between a government that pursued the unflinching policy of keeping the correspondents back in Tokio as long as possible, and the demands of the discontented and finally exasperated foreigners, Gen. Fukushima has had occasion for all the resources of his good humor and for all the politely deprecating language at his command.

He is the author of the following song, which is sung daily in all the public schools of Japan:

Hail the rising sun, the emblem
Of our world-renowned Japan!
In the morning rays her banner
Gleams across her kingdom's span.
Great her people—love of justice
And of fellow man inbred.
With a brave and loyal service
To her great imperial head.

Lo, our foe—a land that knows not
Truth and righteousness by name;
Lies and treachery its usage,
Plunder and rapine the same.
Guiltless babes and maidens murdered,
Burning homes that rise no more,
Witness to the Slav whose practice
Gods and men alike abhor.

Broad the land—a storm-swept desert;
People mixed and lawless hordes;
Cowards, at Pekin they faltered
In the face of Chinese swords.
Cossack name, once famed in story,
Now is but an ancient lay;
Melting snow in morning sunlight,
Russian armies fade away.

Up and forward, steeds and warriors!
March! Already spring is here.
Righteous war admits no foeman;
Joy is ours with naught to fear.
Break the ramparts of Port Arthur,
Tear the walls of Harbin down!
On the heights of Ural mountains
Float the banner of the sun!

Drive the Slav into the forests;
Let him hide within their shade.
Ancient Moscow be his refuge,
There his bloody hand be stayed.
Then unto our sovereign's glory
Praises sound and never cease,
While our hearts unite, rejoicing

DAVIS DEFENDS LABOR RECORD

Says Men Employed in Properties He Directs Are Satisfied With Conditions.

RONOAKE, Va., Aug. 18.—The following letter from H. G. Davis, the Democratic candidate for vice-president, has been made public here:

Elkins, W. V., Aug. 15, 1904.—Mr. I. V. Johnson, Ronoake, W. Va. My Dear Mr. Johnson: I am glad to have your letter calling my attention to the publication placing me in an attitude of hostility to the laboring class. No one who knows me personally or is at all acquainted with the circumstances of my life, will put any credence in the statements to which you refer. I think I can well claim that I belong to the laboring class.

"For many years I worked in the ranks as a wage earner and I know what it is to earn my living by the sweat of my brow. On the other hand I have been a large employer of labor, in railroading, coal mines, lumber mills, etc., and have never had any serious trouble with our men. I can recall but two instances in which there were strikes, and these were of short duration and peaceably settled. No man has ever been discharged from our service because he was a union man, or been evicted from a company's house for any reason. I think you will find that the conditions of the railroad man and the miner in connection with the enterprises I have directed will compare most favorably with those in other localities of the country.

"I have always believed, and my conviction came from the hard school of experience, that, measured by the character of the work he does and the cost of living, every man is entitled to full compensation for his services.

"I am charged with having instituted proceedings which led to an injunction against strikers, by Judge Jackson of this state. The fact is, I had nothing whatever to do with the case, and knew nothing about the matter until I read of it in the newspapers. The injunction did not apply to the men in our employ nor pertain to them in any way. On the contrary, I remember on one occasion one of our superintendents suggested an injunction against our men and I declined to consider it.

"H. G. DAVIS."

MURDER SUSPECT CHASED BY POLICE

Zealous Citizen Who Thought He Saw Burt Ryan, Told Officers of It.

PURSUED ALONG OLIVE STREET

Many Shots Fired But None Took Effect and Fleeing Man Escaped on Car.

Believing he had been talking to Burt Ryan, the alleged murderer of Watchman John Mohr on Pine street Wednesday night of last week, Marion Hurt of 3439 Lindell boulevard, made known his suspicions to two policemen of the Eighth district, and there followed an exciting chase on Olive street from Theresa avenue to Vandeventer avenue, while the street was crowded. A number of shots were fired by the officers, but the suspect succeeded in boarding a rapidly-moving Olive street car and escaped.

The night that Mohr was killed Hurt purchased an automobile tire from a man who answered the description afterwards given of Ryan. Since then Hurt has been on the lookout for the man, and Thursday afternoon met him on Olive street near Theresa. He immediately noticed that the man wore a black derby hat in place of the Panama, which he had worn at their former meeting. Remembering that Ryan had lost a Panama at the scene of the killing, and that he was supposed to have substituted a derby for it, Hurt's suspicion became confirmed in his own mind. He was asked him to have a drink and they entered a saloon. Seeing two officers on the opposite side of the street, Hurt asked the stranger to wait a minute. He then ran across the street and told the policemen of his suspicions. The man didn't wait, but immediately started on a run up Olive street, with the officers and Hurt in pursuit. A number of shots were fired by the officers, but on account of the many people upon the street, they were compelled to fire high and none of the shots took effect. The suspect boarded a car before the officers could overtake him.

A report was immediately made to the Eighth district and officers and detectives were sent out upon the trail of the suspect, but they were unable to find him.

The police do not believe that this man is Ryan, and say that the descriptions of the two differ in several important details. Hurt is certain of the identification, however, and the patrolmen in that vicinity have been given instructions to redouble their efforts to find Ryan or to arrest any stranger closely resembling the description of the suspected murderer.

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF DOINGS IN MARKET AND FINANCIAL WORLD

STOCK MARKET SHOWS A DECLINING TENDENCY

Selling in the General List Is Not Heavy and the Decline Is Gradual but the Close Shows Liberal Losses for the Day.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The opening on Wall street this morning was slightly irregular, some stocks advancing fractionally, while others declined correspondingly.

The coal stocks were slightly higher on favorable reports of the demand for this product, while the steel issues were sharply lower on the announcement of further cuts in prices.

London prices came irregular, and in most instances slightly lower, although sales showed an advance of 1-16 on both accounts.

Reports of 14 railroads for the second week of August still show considerable gains in gross earnings, when compared to the same period in 1903, the average increase being 4.58 per cent.

Railway earnings in the Southwest still show gratifying increases, the Southern railway reporting a gain in gross for the second week in August of $15,815.

Further slashing of prices on steel products are announced. The Lackawanna Steel Co. has made a sharp cut in the price of steel beams and plates.

No confirmation of the completion of the local traction deal is forthcoming over night, and the strength in these issues was not so pronounced as at the closing yesterday.

The market in the second hour was influenced almost entirely by the strength manifested in the grain markets, and a strong rise in this section was the signal for a slight decline in stock values.

Further selling was again apparent in the Steel stocks, the belief gaining ground that further cuts in this line of trade are inevitable.

The action of the Pittsburg Steel Co. in going the American Steel and Wire Co. one better by quoting the same prices to retailers as to jobbers only adds to the present difficulties and it is probable that this action will be quickly met by the wire company.

Mexican Central issues were again conspicuously strong and scored a sharp advance in the early trading, although no news was forthcoming to account for the strength manifested.

It is stated that the interest on the Wabash debenture A bonds recently passed by this company will more than likely be paid at the end of the year.

A drive at American Sugar shares at the noon hour again unsettled the market, and, although the decline is gradual, the tendency of the general list is slowly downward. Sales to noon, 298,800.

The effect of a strong rise of 4 cents in the wheat market was to a great extent offset by a gradual decline of 1 cent in the corn market, and this is in the main responsible for the strong undertone manifested even as stocks decline. Wall street banking on the good corn and cotton crop to entirely counteract the ill effects of the loss in the wheat fields.

The banks gained $549,000 from the subtreasury yesterday, making a total gain for the week of $2,051,000, compared to a gain last week of $1,959,000, and a favorable bank statement is looked for tomorrow.

The announcement of a small and unimportant bank failure at Swanton, Vt., had no apparent effect on prices, although the large number of small bank failures recently noted is a distinctly unfavorable feature of the situation at present.

The declining tendency of the earlier trading became more pronounced as the market closed and on more active selling the last prices noted were at the bottom and generally showed liberal losses for the day.

Opening prices and changes were as follows: Copper 55⅛, unchanged; Atchison 81⅝, decline ¼; Brooklyn 54¾, advance ⅜; Baltimore & Ohio 85½, unchanged; Erie 27⅝, decline ⅛; Missouri Pacific 98⅝, unchanged; Pennsylvania 123½, unchanged; Reading, 56⅝, advance ¼; St. Paul 151¼, advance ⅛; Southern Pacific, 56⅛, decrease ¼; Union Pacific 99¼, decrease ⅜; United States Steel common 12⅛, decrease ¼; United States Steel preferred 59, decrease ½.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The opening stock market was active and very irregular, gains and losses occurring in the same group, Canadian Pacific advanced ⅞ but the grangers were rather heavy. United States Steel preferred dropped ⅝ on the extension of price cutting in the trade. Metropolitan Securities advanced ½ and Metropolitan Street Railway fell ½. Mexican Central rose ¾, and Denver & Rio Grande fell as much.

Support was offered in United States Steel and Pennsylvania was lifted vigorously to above 124. Smelting, Metropolitan Street Railway, Mexican Central and National Railroad of Mexico second preferred gained about a point, and Kansas City Southern preferred 1½. Sugar was then forced down 1⅞, and United States Steel preferred yielded ⅞ under last night. The whole market then reacted and became irregular.

Prices made only feeble fluctuations outside of specialties and the market became very dull. Southern Pacific sagged to ⅞ below last night and Manhattan rose 1. The stocks and bonds of the Mexican group were strong, the stocks rising from 1 to 2 points. Pacific Mail gained ⅞. Iowa Central preferred 1, North American 1¼ and U. S. Realty 1⅜. Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville preferred dropped 7.

Bonds were firm at noon.

The market receded again on moderate offerings and then made a slight rally. The decline carried down Louisville & Nashville, St. Paul, Wabash, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, Colorado & Southern first preferred, Consolidated Gas and Carolina Chemical about a point.

The small rally was short-lived and prices sagged back to the low level almost immediately. Erie fell ⅞ under last night and Canadian Pacific and the local tractions lost all their gains. The trading was dull and uninteresting.

LOCAL STOCKS SHOW VERY LITTLE CHANGE

Trading Is of Very Light Proportions and Prices Are Generally Steady.

TRACTION ISSUES ARE EASIER

Sales in These Stocks Are Small at a Slightly Lower Range of Values.

The trading on the local stock exchange today was only of light volume, and prices noted in most cases were slightly lower than at yesterday's session.

Transit sold as low as $10 on the first sales recorded a decline of ¾ of a point from yesterday's sale price, but a recovery of ⅜ immediately followed and the close found this issue only slightly lower at $10.25 to $10.50. United Railways preferred was ¾ lower on the sale of 15 shares at $53.75. Some minor investment demande was noticeable in United Railway 4's, and this issue advanced ⅛ on the transfer of four bonds at $80.25.

In the bank and trust issues the demand was light and scattered. Missouri Trust was steady around $124.75, while Lincoln Trust was offered at $215.50, and Third National Bank was 2 points lower for an odd lot of 36 shares.

In the miscellaneous list no sales were effected, although Central Coke and Coke was slightly higher at $62.62½ bid and offerings at $62.87½.

No demand of any kind was apparent in the general bond department, and the close of securities, together with the mining stocks, were entirely neglected.

BOOM BROKE OUT AGAIN

Wheat Excited by Strong Cables and Rains in the Northwest Advances Two Cents.

CORN DECLINES ON RAIN

Active and Pressing Demands for Wheat, But Sales Heavy by Prifit Takers.

Wild and wooly was the wheat market of today. Speculation went it blind in buying and extraordinarily great and urgent were buyers that quarters, halves and cents didn't count, so they corralled some of this wheat that was going straight to $1.25 and perhaps much higher. Advices from Northwest were sensational regarding the extent and spread of rust damage, including Manitoba as certainly now in the badly infected regions, and after a strong start based on bullish cables and heavy rains in the Northwest, this killing news kept the trade on the jump buying until over 5c advance made. A relapse on profit taking followed, but the close showed 3⅛c gain for the day. Cash was badly unsettled by the great advance in futures, which checked milling demands, though no such gain as in the options. Rains were to general and good, causing so many bulls to sell out that the boom in wheat really had no influence. Cash was steady and quiet. Oats improved somewhat, but little speculation. Cash firm.

WHEAT—With the Northwest rainswept, the precipitation heavy in places, and English markets on another bull turn, Liverpool having advanced ⅝@¾d and London ⅞@1d, speculation in this country had prospects for another strenuous day before it. The market showed how wild was the buying and how excited the trade by their largely higher opening. Such strong and higher cables in the face of America's 1½@2c decline yesterday and the spring wheat crop up against more probable damage was too much for both bulls and bears, and the buying craze was something fierce. Declines of ¾@1c in Paris and local receipts of 152,700 bu, against 61,300 bu a year ago, were not noticed. September opened with sales at $1.06⅜ to $1.07, latter 1⅝c advance, and sold up to $1.07½, off to $1.06, back to $1.07¾ and down to $1.06⅝. Selling by longs was heavy at the advance. December opened 1⅞c higher at $1.10, sold off to $1.09⅝, up to $1.10⅛ and down to $1.09⅝ asked. May sold at $1.13¼ and offered later at $1.13.

Crop news from the Northwest came deplorably bad subsequently, including Manitoba, in the damage by rust, and had such an exciting effect that buying created by it advanced Sept. before 12 o'clock to $1.10⅞, Dec. to $1.13⅛ and May to $1.16. It was a perfect craze to buy. Closing cables reported advances for day of 1⅞d in Liverpool, 1d in London and ½c in Berlin, declines of ¼@½c in Paris and ⅜c in Budapest and unchanged in Antwerp. Primary receipts were 773,000 bu, against 470,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 514,000 bu, against 288,000 bu last year. Clearances in flour and wheat were 246,000 bu.

A decline followed the noon hour, this through free sellers by longs anxious to realize profits. Sept. was offered at $1.08½ and Dec. at $1.11⅝, but reacted late to $1.09¾ bid and $1.12½, closing at $1.09¼ for Sept., $1.11⅞ sellers for Dec. and $1.15 for May.

Cash market—Largely higher, but extremely unsettled and irregular, the great advance in futures checking buying and limiting sales. Hard winter gained least and slow. By sample, delivered—No. 2 red at $1.12@1.13 west side; No. 3 red at $1.08@1.12; No. 4 at $1@1.08; rejected at 96c; no grade at 95c; No. 2 hard nominally $1.08@1.10; No. 3 hard at $1.06@1.08; No. 4 at 97c@$1.04. Sacked bulked in elevator—No. 2 red at $1.08½; No. 3 red at $1.06⅛; No. 4 at $1.00⅛; rejected at 90c.

CORN—Rains had fallen everywhere in the corn country where needed, and they were not showers, either, but drenching downpours. This relief for the crop where suffering from drouth had a bearish effect on the market that more than offset the booming influence of wheat and the opening was lower. December selling at 49½c to 49c, and May at 49⅞c, with sellers soon at 49⅝c. Liverpool's decline of ⅛@¼d was nowhere near as large as yesterday's in this country. Receipts were 40,500 bu, against 26,100 bu one year ago.

Dec. sold up to 49⅝c and May had 50⅛c bid later, but weakened before noon to respectively 49⅜c and sellers at 49⅞c, so much more for sale than wanted. Primary receipts were 238,000 bu, against 290,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 143,000 bu, against 850,000 bu last year. Clearances were 12,700 bu.

When wheat declined corn weakened still more and at close there were sellers at 52⅞c for Sept., 49c for Dec. and 49⅝c for May.

Cash market—Stronger, but quiet. By sample delivered—No. 2 at 54@54½c; No. 3 at 53½c; No. 4 at 52c; No. 2 yellow at 54½c; No. 2 white at 54½c; No. 3 white at 53½c.

OATS—Except a bid of 33¼c for September, the future market was neglected this morning. Receipts were 60,750 bu, against 59,400 bu one year ago.

Later, Sept. sold at 33¼c and bids of 35c for Dec. and 37¼c for May. Primary receipts were 680,000 bu, against 557,000 bu a year ago, and shipments 348,000 bu, against 749,000 bu last year. Clearances were 9700 bu.

In December there was some trading finally, and that asked at close, when May offered at 37c.

Cash market—Steady and demand good. By sample delivered—No. 2 at 34¼@35c; No. 3 at 33½@34½c and colory 35½c; No. 2 white at 36½c; No. 3 white at 35@36c; No. 4 white at 34¼c; no grade at 34c.

RYE—Market nominally 73c for No. 2 and 70@71c for No. 3.

Trade Topics.

Argentine wheat shipments dropped off to 1,064,000 bu this week, where they were 1,744,000 bu last week, though larger than the 976,000 bu of a year ago. Corn shipments increased to 3,744,000 bu for week, comparing with 2,562,000 bu last week and 2,357,000 bu a year ago. Since Jan. 1 that country has shipped 75,712,000 bu wheat, 43,625,000 bu corn, where respectively 56,370,000 bu and 35,691,000 bu shipped during same time last year. Broomhall's agent reports weather conditions favorable and wheat crop growing well.

In Liverpool wheat the opening was ¼d higher for Sept. and ⅛d for Dec. and later gains of ½d in both months, factors being smaller Argentine shipments than expected and Jones' Manitoba crop report influencing speculative buying and a better spot demand. Heavy Argentine shipments of corn caused quiet opening and prices ¼d lower, but Sept. recovered this loss as result of a good spot demand and the scarcity of mixed corn.

Minneapolis wires: One of largest flouring mill companies in Minneapolis predicts the three spring wheat states cannot possibly raise over 125,000,000 bu wheat. Other good conservative people put it down to 100,000,000 bu. Crowe, of the Northern Elevator Co., of Winnipeg, is sending very serious damage reports on Manitoba crop. Four days ago he could not find any damage, so you can see how fast this rust is spreading.

Snow wires: "Drove from Fergus to Alexandria, Minn., 60 miles. Wheat failure absolutely complete. Heavy straw, but not a pint of grain to the shock. Practically none will be thrashed. Not 100 bu. of plump wheat on 1000 acres. Ottertail and Douglas counties crossed in the drive, 200,000 acres of wheat."

Broomhall cabled: A private telegram received in Liverpool states that threshing returns in the north of France are disappointing and estimates the crop in that section (the most important in the country), at 25 per cent less than last year.

Modern Miller crop outlook: In localities where there has been sufficient moisture and rains have been quite general farmers are preparing the soil for winter wheat seeding. Indications are that a full average acreage will be sown. Farmers in the eastern winter wheat section, and especially in the states where the yield was shortest, are holding their best wheat. A decrease in the receipts at the markets is probable.

FLOUR—Largely higher price asked owing to great advance in wheat, but business checked thereby. Soft winter flour in bbls quotable: Patents, $5.40@5.75; straights, $5.25@5.35; extra fancy, $5.10@5.20; clear, $4.35@4.60. Hard winter in sacks: Patent, $4.80@4.85; straight, $4.40@4.70; clear, $3.75@4.

MILLFEED—Strong, but prices asked check business. Basis east track, 90c bid for Kansas bran and 95c for choice soft winter in 100s; mixed feed at 94@95c for hard and 96@97c for soft winter mids at $1.05@1.10. At mill bran jobs at 92@93c and ships at $1.10.

HAY—Firm for good feeding hay, the market for other descriptions dull. On east track—New timothy, $12 for choice, $11@11.50 for No. 1 and $8@10 for No. 2. Old timothy, $13.50 for choice, $12@12.50 for No. 1 and $10@11 for No. 2. New clover $11@11.50 for No. 1 and $9@10 for No. 2. New clover mixed at $8.50@9 for No. 1 and $7@7.50 for No. 2. New prairie, $9.50 for No. 1, $8@8.50 for No. 2, and $6@7 for low grade.

STRAW—On track, wheat and oats, $5@5.50; rye, $6@6.50.

FLAXSEED—St. Louis steady at $1.16 bid for spot and to arrive, prompt shipment, with sale of one car to arrive.

Chicago—Northwestern, $1.24 bid; southwestern, $1.16½ bid; August and September, $1.16½.

Duluth—Sept., $1.24; Oct., $1.23½ bid.

Minneapolis—Cash, $1.22.

PORK—New standard mess, f. o. b., closed at $11.85.

LARD—Choice steam and east side closed at 6.35c; kettle-rendered, 6¾@7¾c.

BACON—Boxed s. c. meats jobbing: Breakfast bacon, 11c for heavy to 15c for choice light; hams, 12½@13c; California, 8¾c; New York shoulders, 8½c. Plain smoked boxed lots, jobbing way: Extra shorts, 8¾c; c'ribs, 8¾c; short clear, 9c; bellies, 9¼@10¼c; plates, 8¾c; standard backs, 9¼c; higher on orders.

COUNTRY LARD—Quotable at 4@5c.

OLEOSTEARINE—Nominal at 7¼c.

TALLOW—Country—No. 1, 4¾c; No. 2, 4c; packers' prime, 5c.

GREASE—Small, irregular lots country: Brown, 3@3¼c; yellow, 3¼@3½c, and white, 3¾@4c, latter for choice.

LEAD—Little business. Ordinary Missouri can be bought at $4 and delivered quotable at $4.02½, but some special brands Missouri are salable at $4.05.

SPELTER—Not much changing hands, then at $4.77½.

GRAIN MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Wheat shorts and commission houses led another wild scramble to buy here today, bidding the price of Sept. 1¼ to 2c up to $1.08 to $1.08¼ and Dec. 1⅝@1¾c to 2¼@2⅜c to $1.09¼ to $1.09⅝. Higher cables, the unfavorable aspect of the war situation in the Orient and rain throughout the wheat country were the impelling factors.

There was some local selling at the advance, but the demand was strong and the prices of the September option advanced to $1.09⅜, with December up to $1.09⅝. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 189 cars, against 381 cars a year ago.

The bearish influence of generous rains in the corn belt was in a large measure offset by the strength in the wheat pit. September corn was steady at ⅝c lower to ⅛c higher, at 54c to 54⅛c, but declined under local long and commission house selling to 53⅞c. December was weak at a decline of ¼@⅜c to ⅛@⅝c, initial sales being at 52⅞c to 53c, followed by a further loss to 52⅝c.

A good shipping demand prevented a sharp break in prices. There was a moderate scattered demand for oats by shorts on account of the wheat strength. As a result, September was a shade to ⅛@¼c higher, at 34⅛@34¼c.

Local traders in provisions favored the long side and their buying gave strength to the entire list. September pork sold 10c higher, at $11.87½. Lard was up 7½c, at $7.15, and ribs 2½c to 5c, at $7.50.

The reports on crop conditions in the Northwest, which began to arrive soon after the opening depicted more and more desperate outlook and started a veritable panic in the pit. The bears for a time held the upper hand and forced the price back to $1.07⅞ for September and to $1.08⅜ for December, but they were swept from their feet in a few minutes later, when, with a roar the rush of buying orders took possession of the floor. September went to $1.10⅜ and December to $1.12½. Immense quantities of long offerings melted away before the onslaught of buyers. At the high figures, a reaction occurred when the furor had spent itself, and September was forced back to $1.08⅝, with December back to $1.10⅝. Satisfied longs caused the backset, but the reverse was only temporary. Another impetuous bull wave took the September back to $1.09⅝ and the close was strong at $1.09⅝, a net gain of 3⅛c. December advanced to $1.11⅛ and closed strong with a net gain of 4c at $1.11⅛@1.11½.

Corn weakened under further selling pressure to 53⅛c for September and 52⅛c for December. Wheat strength imparted a temporarily firmer tone and September rallied to 54⅛ and December to 53⅛c. The market became heavy during the last hour and the close was weak, with September down 1c, at 53⅝c, and December 1@1⅛c, at 52⅝c.

STATE BUILDINGS BAR MUD.

Ten of the Structures Locked Doors on Visitors Thursday.

The action of the state commissioners in closing 10 of the state buildings at the World's Fair on account of the mud, which was tracked in by visitors, caused much dissatisfaction and complaint on the part of visitors Thursday afternoon. By reason of the rain many especially desired to find shelter, and a grand rush for the state buildings was in progress all afternoon, but in the cases of 10 buildings the doors were found to be locked. Those which were closed to the public are: Texas, Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania. The commissioners delcared this action was necessary on account of the damage done to furniture and carpets by the mud.

At the Texas building a fruit festival had been advertised for the afternoon, but this was postponed.

Aside from the buildings named, however, all were open and were crowded all day, the visitors taking advantage of the rain to remain indoors and see the exhibits.

The movement started a week ago to close the state buildings on the Children's Day at the Fair is being extensively advocated by a number of the state commissioners.

DONOVAN COMMISSION CO. ON THE MARKETS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19.—Every time the bears take a fall out of wheat they get beautifully bumped the next day. That's what happened to them today after yesterday's fall down. People who sold out or short on that break had to do a mighty rapid climbing stunt to get in, and I reckon some of them are still hollering: "Stop her." Foreigners shot over cables that were as hot as the day before they were chilly, but it was the devastating work of the crop killer in the spring wheat country that did the business. They certainly did hand out some tabasco crop news. Hot stuff! Well, I should felicitate myself. The gait was too swift to stay. A large line of bulls wanted to dismount and lug home the wads they had picked off. Some of them would choke a hippo. Steam is still on and there's no telling where it will shut off. This big boom may get temporary reverses, but the man who takes profits wants to do the get-in-again act mighty quick. There was a further wash-out of corn bulls who wouldn't stand for rain. The crop isn't made yet and you'll hear of more trouble after these bulls-afraid-of-rain get out. Corn and oats won't go low with wheat traveling in the dollar class. Buy the coarse grains.

BUYERS PURCHASING FREELY

Early Reports of Jobbers Is Encouraging for Fall Trade.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Advices received by the International Mercantile Agency show that there has been little change in business conditions during the week, except in districts specially affected by reports of crop damage and disturbance incident to the cut in steel prices. Business on the whole shows up well, and, in most retail lines is fully holding its own. In certain sections of the West trade has been decidedly stimulated, with improved distribution and generally hopeful feeling.

Commercial centers are beginning to feel the impetus of summer travel and buyers are flocking to distributing points, disposed to buy liberally, although with marked discrimination. This is a good sign and shows that replenishment this year will be conducted along conservative lines. More seasonable weather throughout the Southwest has led to better results in many lines, especially in dry goods and various branches of apparel.

Boot and shoe orders are in better volume and jobbers in hats and caps are forcing factories to work overtime to keep up the current business. This improvement has extended to the clothing industry, the outlook for which in some sections was reported to be rather uncertain a week ago. Less stock than usual is believed to have been carried over in many lines owing to the known conservatism of prominent dealers. Their experience last winter was suggestive of the greater care that was displayed this year in avoiding the "overstocking evil" for spring and summer goods.

An excellent demand is noted for groceries, especially staples, where prices are firm and distribution is for the most part satisfactory. Encouraging returns are shown in dry goods and in paints and oils. Leather has been active at the South with better advance in prices owing to the scarcity of properly cured hides. The wool market has also strengthened somewhat, and tobacco in general is holding firm.

The Kansas City and St. Louis districts report another week of active business with steady improvement in many lines and generally expanding trade. The latter section especially is feeling the stimulus of increased trade from the World's Fair visitors, whose purchases are swelling the volume of ordinary business to abnormal proportions.

While the final results are, in a measure, dependent upon the crop development, it is noteworthy that the districts which would suffer most from a disastrous shortage have not been alarmed by the excitement that has attended this week's trading in wheat options at New York, Chicago and Minneapolis.

BABE KILLED AT PLAY WITH MOTHER

Tiny Skull Crushed on Parent's Head in Game of "Up, High as the Sky.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"Up she goes, high as the sky! Up she goes and up again!"

"Frow men higher 'n higher nex' the sky, mamma."

Four-year-old Dora Elbrecht, a human doll, was laughing in her mother's eyes and every time the strong arms tossed her in the air the musical sound rippled out into the street from the windows of the Elbrecht home, 182 Stanton street.

"Here she goes over the moon!"

Once again the child's laughter rang out, but suddenly ceased. The baby's head had struck against her mother's forehead as she was falling into the eager arms, and the brown curls drooped as a baby hand clutched at the mother's dress.

"Oh, baby, did it hurt you? See, mamma will kiss it and make it well. Naughty old head to hurt baby so! We'll just whip the naughty old head. Just watch mamma beat it!"

There was a faint smile in the brown eyes and then the lids closed. The laughter was hushed.

And She Dropped Into Dreamless Sleep.

"Never mind, Dora's tired and she'll go to bed," said Mrs. Elbrecht, smoothing the tangled curls. Humming a lullaby, the mother removed the little shoes and stockings, white frock and petticoat and gently laid the child in her crib.

Monday night, when the father came upstairs from his work and kissed the child, the only one that had come to brighten his home, the mother told how the child had slept all the afternoon. Dora had been sick Sunday and both parents were anxious about her.

"Yes," said the father, "the poor little girl is sick, and the sleep will do her good. She was down in the store playing with the tailors' needles, and I told her to come up and ask you to bounce her."

"I did, but she bumped her little head and spoiled the game," said his wife.

Little Dora seemed to sleep soundly all night. In the morning she was still sleeping.

"Better wake her up," said the father, and the mother called to Dora, but the child slept on.

"Come Now, Sleepy Eyes, You Must Wake Up."

"Come, now, sleepy-eyes, wake up," said Mrs. Elbrecht, lifting the child from the cradle, but she could not arouse the little one. A tell-tale red mark on the side of the child's head meant no more than a bump to the mother.

Father and mother both became alarmed when they could not awaken Dora, and Elbrecht ran to Gouverneur Hospital and asked for medical assistance. An ambulance was sent to the house, and Dr. Dosch saw at a glance that the child was dying. He found that its skull had been crushed. He took the child to the hospital in the hope of saving its life.

Yesterday afternoon, however, little Dora died in the hospital, and the father, heartbroken, went to his home, where the shadow of death had blotted out the light of a child's laughter, and the patter of little feet echoed only in memory, to tell his wife that their baby girl was dead.

The mother still believes the child died of an illness. The father has not the courage to tell her that her kisses to make the little head well were in vain. Mrs. Elbrecht is almost frantic with grief, and for fear of a complete collapse was not allowed to see the body of her dead child.

She must remember her darling only as she saw her last—the brown curls pillowed on one tiny arm, the other bare arm stretched above her head, sleeping a sleep from which she never awakened.

GILA MONSTER IS A MODEST EATER

Humane Society Demands That He Be Fed Oftener, but Custodians Remonstrate.

DAILY MEAL WOULD KILL HIM

Anyone Who Wants to Take Him Out for a Promenade Can Have Privilege.

The gila monster at the World's Fair was in danger for a while of being fed to death at the behest of the St. Louis Humane Society. A demand was made by an agent of the society that the reptile be fed at least twice a day. It was only by putting up some pretty strong natural history talk that J. W. Benham, owner of the monster, was able to avert a gorging which would have been very distressing to the gila.

It happens that the gila monster is addicted to an austere and abstemious habit. It regards one or two square meals a week as quite a sufficiency, and would look upon three meals a week as sinful waste of provender.

Members of the Humane society did not know this, and when they heard that the monster was only getting fed twice a week they were indignant. They sent an official out to the trading post on the Indian reservation, where the monster is on view, with instructions to see to it that the monster got at least two meals a day.

The official expected to see the gauntness of starvation, but he was surprised to find the monster quite plump and quite cheerful withal, for a monster. Its fat sides did not look as if it had been fasting.

The officer told Mr. Benham what he had been hearing and what he had been sent to do. Mr. Benham assured him that the monster was getting all the food it had any use for, and that it would not eat any more unless it was forced to, and that if it was forced to eat two meals a day it would soon be a dead gila.

The agent was convinced, but he insisted that the monster should have some exercise. It was being kept a prisoner and had no chance to get out and stretch itself and take a promenade.

Mr. Benham said he would be delighted to give the gila an outing now and then if it could be done without prejudice to the census. But as the gila has a fondness for sending human beings to another sphere, he feared that the gila would have the reservation much to himself when he walked abroad in the cool of the evening.

To be sure, somebody might lead him by a string and keep him from killing World's Fair visitors, but who would keep the monster from cutting short the existence of the man who led him. It was agreed, after a fashion, that if Mr. Benham could find anybody who would be willing to take the g. m. out for a daily promenade this should be done.

CHINAMEN ROUNDED UP LIKE CATTLE BY THE INSPECTORS.

By American De Forest Wireless Telegraphy.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, Aug. 18.—Did you ever crane your neck to look over the tall fence of a cattle pen at drovers handling cattle inside?

This is exactly the way 500 men and women acted at the World's Fair Wabash station Wednesday night, except that they were watching Federal officers handle dignified Chinamen.

The pen was enclosed by a high picket fence, and the officers, under the command of Chief Inspector J. C. Dunn, corralled 211 Chinese in silver tunics, who had just arrived to spend the remainder of the World's Fair period at the Fair.

The Chinese, some of whom were merchants from Hongkong, Canton, Pekin and other cties, are virtual prisoners of the Federal authorities, and are to be returned to their native land at the end of the Fair.

When the orders of the inspectors were interpreted to them, they smiled good naturedly and paid no attention to the crowds gathered around.

When the train arrived at the Wabash station the platform was cleared by inspectors before the Chinese were allowed to leave the cars.

Then they were brought out one by one. Each wore a number on his breast like a prisoner and the number was called off.

They were lined up with their heels on the rail of the next track.

Just as this was done another train arrived and inspectors and trainmen united to "shoo" the frightened Chineso out of danger.

None will be allowed to leave the Fair except by special permit from the inspectors duly reported and registered in Washington.

Frank Daniels and Company Began Their Rehearsals in St. Louis Today

SALLIE FISHER

Comedian Frank Daniels, brown as a Filipino with the life of a sailor at his seashore home, appeared at the Olympic Theater this morning to begin work for the season of 1904-5.

Mr. Daniels was joined here by all the members of his company, and they held their first dress rehearsal at the Olympic today, preparatory to opening with "The Office Boy" Sunday night.

Mr. Daniels is in excellent health and spirits, and he will resume his $3 a week job in the office after one of the finest vacations any office boy ever had. He confirms the story of yesterday that he has his summer cottage rigged up like a ship, with life preservers on the porch for the succor to any who fals off the water wagon.

Misses Sallie Fisher and Clara Belle Jerome are here to take the leading feminine parts with Mr. Daniels.

The coming of the "Mother Goose" company from New York to St. Louis is going to be the most pretentious theatrical trip ever made in America. The "Mother Goose" company is even larger than was that of "Mr. Bluebeard," and the properties brought from London are like unto those of a circus. They will fill seven 65-foot baggage cars, and another section of the train will bring 388 people. The spectacle opens at the Olympic Sept. 4, following Frank Daniels. It will be there a month.

BURIED TREASURE BOOMS REAL ESTATE

Speculators Buy Farm of Miser Wheeler to Dig for Reported Fortune of Gold.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Every foot of the farm of the late Francis W. Wheeler, who lived like a miser and buried his money about the farm near Sayville, L. I., is to be dug up by its new owners in search for the hidden fortune.

The property was sold in sections at public auction yesterday. The bidding was spirited, because of the tales of buried treasure, and the property brought good prices.

Wheeler was eccentric. Whenever he was paid money he would have it changed into gold or silver and in the night time would leave his home and bury it. He buried money in so many different spots that he forgot where some of it was. He was so fearful that some of his neighbors might find his hiding places that he never marked them.

At his death he could not tell his housekeeper where his money was. In his delirium he moaned continuously about "the shed."

The housekeeper searched there and found a large sum, which she showed to Mr. Wheeler. He waved his arms and shouted:

"More, more, more yet."

But the housekeeper was never able to find any more.

Wheeler was accounted very rich. He never kept money in his house. When he needed money, he would postpone payment for a day that he might go out in the night and dig some of it up.

HEIRESS BURIED IN POTTER'S FIELD

Gretchen Wassman, Who Died Alone in City Hospital, Has Wealthy Relatives in Germany.

An investigation by the police shows that Gretchen Wassman, 23 years old, who died of pneumonia in the City Hospital April 28, 1904, and whose body was buried in the potter's field, was one of the heirs to a large estate in Bamberg, Germany, and even now relatives in Germany, unaware of the death of the young woman, are awaiting some word from her before the affairs of the estate are finally closed.

About a month ago Mrs. Joseph Herzog, a sister of Miss Wassman, wrote to the police, asking that they make some effort to locate her.

"We have good news for her," was the statement in the letter. "If you find her have her communicate with her sister at once."

The efforts of the police failed the first time and the matter was dropped until a few days ago, when a second letter was received from Mrs. Herzogg. The police were urged to find the girl, as without her signature the will of the parent, leaving the estate, could not be probated.

The police made another search and this time found that a woman by the name of Gretchen Wassman had been taken to the City Hospital from a residence in South St. Louis, where she had been employed.

She was taken to the City Hospital April 12, and the mortuary record of April 28 told the rest of the story. On that day she died and there was not a single friend or relative near her. The city authorities ordered the body sent to the potter's field.

The letters from Germany indicate that Gretchen Wassman left her home in Germany in 1902. Stories of the World's Fair, together with the tempting inducements for employment which the Fair occasioned, caused the girl to leave her home and sail across the sea.

Friday Chief Kiely addressed a letter to Mrs. Herzog, informing her of the death of her sister.

Christian Scientists Tell How They Have Subdued Dashing Teams by "Fear Treatment."

Special to the Post-Dispatch

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 19.—At a convention of the Christian Science Church, in session here, Mrs. A. C. Wakeley, wife of a former judge of the district court, related that a team of spirited horses dashed down the Burt street hill on Aug. 10 minus a driver. On a rear seat was 14-year-old Florence Fuller, daughter of a wealthy western ranchman. At the foot of the hill piles of granite paving stones blocked the patch of the galloping horses.

"To onlookers it seemed that the child would be dashed to death until I stood in the street and gave the fear treatment," declared Mrs. Wakeley. "You all know how those horses became gentle in an instant."

It is a fact that the horses stopped as if by a miracle. Mrs. A. C. Besson told of checking the flight of a runaway horse in Farnam street after the animal shied at an automobile and seemed likely to pitch its driver into the gutter.

WOULD DIE LIKE "BABES IN WOODS

Chicago Children Supposed to Be Stolen Found in Swamp, One Unconscious From Hunger.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The three children of Charles Hauser, a contractor, who disappeared on Tuesday from their home in Oak Park, under circumstances which caused their father to report to the police his fears that they had been kidnaped, were found last night on the banks of the Desplaines river, near Edgewater Park, three miles from their home.

To the police the oldest child, Emma, 13 years of age, stated that their stepmother had scolded them and that they were afraid of getting whipped, so they ran away. When the children were found the youngest, 6 years of age, was unconscious from exposure and lack of food.

They said they had given up hopes of finding their way back and were going to die like the "Babes in the Woods."

TWO CHURCHES WANT HOU...

One Has Possession and the Other Tries the Courts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 19.—Jealousy over church doctrine is responsible for the filing of a bill in the circuit court of Shelby County by the trustees of the Christian Church of Sand Creek against the Church of Christ to gain possession of the brick house of worship in which the former denomination once held services.

The complainants say they were baptized in the brick church, have long been members therein in good standing, and that they have at no time been excommunicated or dismissed. They charge that J. K. P. Rose recently organized the Church of Christ and took possession of the edifice and refuses to let the original body worship in it.

The congregation of the Christian Church has offered to divide Sundays with the defendants, but the latter see no reason for compromise.

MILLS & AVERILL

It may seem a bit early to talk Fall and Winter Fashions, but this is an exceptional season. Thousands of visitors are in our city seeing the greatest of all World's Fairs—the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Months ago we realized this fact and decided to be prepared. We are ready, after a long and exhaustive study of style and fabrics—after the application of this knowledge to the construction of clothes of unassailable character and worth.

Merchant Tailoring Department

As the new suitings and overcoatings come from the looms in the mills, we are first to obtain the richest and most exclusive patterns. In transforming these fabrics into garments to your measure there are no facilities which we do not possess.
